Exciting Zeppelin Voyage.

WHEN this was written, at 6 p. m. yesterday, there was some anxiety about the big airship. No wireless has been received since shortly after 1 o'clock, when the Zeppelin was 20 miles northwest of Bermuda.

She was 800 miles from her hangar at Lakehurst, and because the voyage had lasted so much longer than was expected, food supplies were running low.

IT WAS suggested that passengers would have to subsist the rest of the voyage on bread, caviar and champagne.

However, there is every reason to believe that the passengers will be landed safely today.

And many, living under prohibition, could imagine a worse fate than being condemned to live on caviar and champagne.

DR. ECKENER and his fellow officers on the big Zeppelin hope that American capital will interest itself in the building of five airships for trans-Atlantic flight.

A big New York bank is said to be interested.

All are interested in the development of aviation. Every useful new thing helps general prosperity. If we can't build the airships ourselves, the next best thing is to finance them.

MR. ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., of General Motors, and his associates will sooner or later get into the airplane field.

McClintic-Marshall, a firm of Pittsburgh, now constructing ready-made steel frames for houses, might well turn from steel to duralumin to build all-metal dirigibles and frames.

WALL STREET begins a new week happily. United States Steel on Saturday went to a new high price, and other stocks up with it.

All the news from everywhere seems to be good. High interest rates, which can't last, since this nation is not committed to usury, offer fine opportunities for conservative investment in bonds.

Great demand for automobiles, keeping all plants at capacity production, is one proof of prosperity.

The Northwest and Middle West reports good business.

Truly, "it hath not been shown what we shall be."

IF WE were much more prosperous, we could hardly stand it. That is to say, some of us could hardly stand it. But it is not so with all, unfortunately.

In New York a man 50 years old, having vainly sought a job open to gray hairs, tried to hang himself from a third-story window. He did not succeed in hanging himself, but fell and was killed.

MR. ROY HOWARD looks before he leaps and decides not to leap, after having alcoholic drinks analyzed in many of New York's "best" speakeasies.

In eight "high grade" establishments, his agents purchased liquors actually deadly. Only two or three places out of 28 sold whiskies non-poisonous.

And they also were poisonous since alcohol, as fools use it, is always a poison.

HENRY FORD has bought and will take to his museum in Dearborn, Mich., a little one-room building in which Luther Burbank worked at his problems.

Henry Ford, unconsciously, imitates the Empress Catherine of Russia, who wrote philosophical letters to old Voltaire, and many letters of quite a different kind to young gentlemen nearer home.

WHEN Voltaire died, Catherine took the wooden lining from the rooms that he used in his house at Ferney, bought and took to Russia his entire library, 6,000 volumes with annotations in his fine handwriting on many pages.

How much would you give for Montesquieu's "Spirits of Laws," annotated by Voltaire or his marked volumes of the classics?

FORTY-FIVE MILLION human beings work for pay in this country, and earn about $47,000,000,000, a little more than $1,000 each on the average.

Forty-eight thousand families are covered by group insurance in American industries. Each worker is protected with $1,500 insurance at about 50 per cent more than a year's earnings.

THE importance and value of insurance are not sufficiently appreciated. In human undertakings, the great words are "SAFETY, CERTAINTY, SECURITY."

Insurance makes certainty possible, eliminates the factor of danger, and final failure. Be insured, be safe, and work better, because you feel better.

SOME of the ablest men in Wall Street will meet in Atlantic City this week for the annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America.

They will talk conservatively about investments, and deplore "over speculation," as becomes gentlemen that have almost enough already.

But they know that many American securities are selling far below their value. Mr. Jerome J. Hanauer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, for instance, will be there, and he could tell you, if he would, how to invest $50,000 safely in a stock under his care, and change your $50,000 into $250,000.

But, he won't tell you. Wise Wall Street men don't give advice or take it.

LORD MELCHETT, formerly Alfred Mond, one of the richest and most useful men in Great Britain, gigantically rich, laboring to establish co-operation between capital and labor, starts intelligently by making capital do

CLUB, DIVE KEEPERS ASKED TO AID FUND

The office of Mayor Charles H. Kline is being used as headquarters in a drive to sell advertising in a proposed booklet booming the candidacy of Herbert Hoover.

This booklet, so far as can be learned, has not been authorized by the Republican city, county or state committees, although the Mayor is reported to be familiar with the advertising campaign.

The solicitation, some of which is being done by telephone from the City-County Building, is not confined to business men. Proprietors of one-man clubs, speakeasies and other resorts have been "requested" to buy space.

They are instructed to make their checks payable to J. Edward Garlitz, treasurer, and mail them to the Mayor's office, City-County Building. Garlitz is assistant secretary.

The booklet, according to the receipt sent when money is received, is to be known as "The Official Hoover League Manual." It is to be published by the "Hoover Pittsburgh Republican Progressive League." With the exception of the treasurer, the officers and members of the league to date are veiled in mystery.

"All the money will be used for the manual," said Garlitz today. "We started to do this to help Hoover. We are not using the name of the Mayor's office to hold up anyone. No one has to advertise."

"Does the Mayor know about this?" he was asked.

"I don't know. He might have heard from some outside source."

Tongmen Here Quiet As Feud Rages

Gunmen Amuck in New York, Philadelphia, Chicago And Washington.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Chinese tongs were at war again today. The death toll soon after the outbreak Sunday was: Two in Chicago, one in New York, one in Philadelphia, two in Washington. Police guarded Chinese sections of these and other cities.

As Wong Chu, a New York waiter, played cards with a dozen other Hip Song tongmen in his apartment, a gunman, described as an On Leong, pushed open the door, shot Wong Chu four times, killing him, and then turned the gun on Wong Wai, wounding him.

A second death attributed by the police to the Chinese tong war was uncovered in Chicago today when the body of a Chinese, shot through the head, was found in a laundry in West Madison street.

The police believe the man was Moy Lee, owner of the laundry, or Frank Sing, whose name appeared on a gas bill sent to the laundry.

The first victim of the tong war now in progress in Chicago was Eng Pak, a Hip Sing adherent, who was shot and killed as he sat in a taxicab in Chinatown last night.

Shortly afterward Chinese invaded the restaurant of Willie Took, member of the rival On Leong Tong, and shot and wounded him. Wild bullets also wounded a waitress and a chef.

Ling Sing, 72, of Boston, an On Leong, was killed in a pistol duel with two Chinese in Philadelphia.

Two Chinese were killed and two others wounded in the outbreak of Tong warfare in Washington. Twenty-one suspected Tongsmen were arrested.

The two Tongs, ancient rivals, had been at peace since the signing of a formal pact March 27, 1927, after a series of outbreaks in which there were killings in Brooklyn, Newark,

Kleman Inn Padlock Placed

Kleman's Inn, 201 Collins avenue, is a common nuisance, Federal Judge R. M. Gibson ruled in ordering the drawing of a padlocking decree against the first floor and basement of that address. The East End rendezvous is to remain under federal lock for one year.

Prohibition agents testified they had purchased two quarts of ale there last April, came back in June and sampled 10 glasses of high test beer, and during a raid in July seized 18 quarts of ale, some wine and three half barrels of beer. John P. Kleman and Antol Koller are named as proprietors and Kleman the owner of the place.

In Judge F. P. Schoonmaker's court brand new padlocks were ordered for 45 wet emporiums in Pittsburgh, Clairton and McKeesport. The new locks are guaranteed for one year.

In some cases the owners of the properties involved were granted permission to file petitions to have the injunctions modified and lease the buildings to new tenants, provided the petitioner posted bonds against further violations of the prohibition law on the premises. In the prosecution of the injunction suits the government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney J. A. Richardson.

DRYS RAID BUTCHER SHOP, WOMAN HELD

Beer and whisky, rather than steaks and chops, were to be found in the ice box of Mrs. Pauline Fisher's butcher shop at 5416 Second avenue, police who raided her place testified in Morals Court today. Mrs. Fisher, 43, and her "bartender," W. W. Kzik, 36, were held for court.

Chinatown King Asks Police Protection After Feud Breaks Out in Other Cities.

Detectives and police were guarding Pittsburgh's Chinatown today to prevent killings similar to those that have occurred in five other cities throughout the country yesterday with the renewal of open warfare between the On Leong and Hip Sing tongs.

The little district of Second and Third avenues, between Grant and Ross streets, was deserted last night and only a few suspicious individuals were halted by police.

An appeal from King Lai, vice president of the On Leong Tong, was made to police for protection. This came yesterday after Lai had been informed from New York that a killing had occurred. Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd assigned six plainclothesmen to the district, working in relay pairs, and the uniform patrol for the section also was doubled. The Hip Sing headquarters here is located in Second avenue and the On Leong temple is in Third avenue.

All through the night, Detectives Michael Carney, Thomas Morgan, Edward Schindell and Vincent Cavanaugh were abroad in the district. The sleuths searched several establishments, including the Hip Sing headquarters, for weapons, but nothing was found.

Fear of a tong war here is remote. Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh believes the pact between the two tongs signed several years ago, will not be broken.

Cox to Spurn Jury

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced today that he would get in touch with Father James R. Cox to learn what Cox knows of rampant law violations in the Strip—wide-open bootlegging and an organized graft system, as the priest charged in a radio sermon from his Old St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church.

While Gardner, in the Courthouse, was making this announcement, Father Cox, in the study of his home, was telling a reporter for this newspaper that he wouldn't willingly testify before the grand jury, that he would have to be subpenaed.

"What's the use of going before the grand jury?" Father Cox asked. "That won't do any good. Gardner knows all about these law violations, but the grand jury won't catch the big fellows."

Gardner said whether he would call Father Cox before the grand jury depended on what the pastor told him in their conference.

Mayor Charles H. Kline's administration, accused by Alderman John J. Verona of accepting graft from gamblers and bootleggers, was denounced again yesterday by Dr. Cox in his Sunday sermon.

"Grand juries will investigate, the judges will try the cases, but the big fellows will not go to jail. They are confident that they can not be touched," Dr. Cox said. "The Mayor, the director of public safety, the police superintendent and his inspectors and every police magistrate should quit or be fired," the priest said.

Father Cox, who last year criticized the Citizens' League for bringing William L. King here from Kansas City to stage a cleanup, referred to the fugitive reformer in his sermon. He said:

"A year ago I fought hard against a man brought to Pittsburgh to effect reform. I still believe that bringing him here was a mistake. I believe then and I believe now that Pittsburgh has men who can clean up its dirt.

"Racketeers rule the city through the ward chairmen. The district in which this church is located contains the winery and the distillery colony of the city. The various concessionnaires pay tribute to unofficial emissaries of city officials and this money is split between the leaders. Vice will always exist, but the police cannot afford to organize it and sell the concessions as in a circus. They must be on the alert to repress it.

"It is time that we quit putting 'rummies' in public office and allowing them to do nothing but fill their coffers with bootleg profits. A housecleaning now, turning all our officials, with but few exceptions, out of office, is what we need. Then we can start all over again in the right direction."

PASSES OVER PHILADELPHIA

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service. Reproduction of this message in whole or in part expressly forbidden.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Commander Eckener, of the Graf Zeppelin, plans to guide his great airship over New York before making a landing at Lakehurst, according to radio advices from the vessel, received here at 2 o'clock this afternoon. At that hour the airship was on its way from Baltimore to Philadelphia.

Associated Press.

Making landfall on the American continent near Cape Charles, Va., at about 10 o'clock, the Graf Zeppelin cruised up the Chesapeake and arrived over Washington at 12:21 p. m. Baltimore whistles acclaimed her first successful commerical air crossings of the Atlantic at exactly 1 o'clock. The next city on her calling list was Wilmington, and then Philadelphia.

The dirigible, nearing the end of her 6,500-odd mile flight from Friedrichshafen, had eclipsed all previous records for sustained flight by her type of aircraft.

The old Zeppelin record of 101 hours fell at 7 a. m. The mark of the ill-fated French Dixmude, which had remained aloft for 104 hours, was broken at 10 a. m., and then the world record of 108 hours made by the English R-34 in her westward Atlantic flight, was in the discard at 2 p. m., when the Graf Zeppelin was over Elkton, Md.

PHILADELPHIA GIVES WELCOME

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Gleaming a dull gray against the leaden skies, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin appeared over the southern tip of Philadelphia at 2:33 o'clock this afternoon. The huge ship appeared over the southern edge of the city and sailed on towards the central section of the city as thousands of Philadelphians perched on roofs and housetops to see the first trans-Atlantic mail and passenger dirigible.

PASSES WILMINGTON

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 15.—The huge German dirigible Graf Zeppelin sailed majestically over Wilmington this afternoon at 2:18 o'clock, heading up the Delaware River towards Philadelphia.

Hundreds lined the streets as the huge silver-gray craft passed over at a low altitude.

9 ESCORT PLANES SENT

MITCHEL Field, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Nine Army airplanes were ordered by the War Department to leave Mitchel Field at 3 p. m. today to escort the Graf Zeppelin to Lakehurst. The squadron, carrying reporters and cameramen, planned to fly south until it picked up the dirigible. The planes will return to the field without landing at Lakehurst.

LAKEHURST READY

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 15.—The trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin wirelessed the Lakehurst naval station today that it expects to land at Lakehurst "at or before sunset."

Weather conditions seemed likely to be favorable for the landing. All forenoon there was practically no wind and clear, sunshiny weather prevailed. The ground crew of 450 men had been thoroughly drilled and was in readiness to handle the Zeppelin at any hour, day or night.

The information contained in the message to the station here was also transmitted to the Navy Department in Washington.

The radio read:

"Plans indefinite, but will probably land at or before sunset. Informed department."

The message was signed "Graf Zeppelin."

The Graf Zeppelin had in an earlier message to the Navy Department at 8 a. m. given her position as 35.30 north, 74.04 west, or about 60 miles east of Cape Hatteras. She was then traveling 45 to 50 miles per hour.

THOUSANDS GATHER

Several thousand persons were on the field near the hangar at 11 o'clock and the number was being constantly augmented. News of the approach of the Zeppelin spread like wildfire and automobiles began to wend their way up the highways in droves. The New Jersey state

ZEP OVER CAPITAL SALUTES COOLIDGE

By KENNETH CLARK,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Poking its long nose out of an overcast sky as gray as its own color, the Graf Zeppelin paid a fleeting visit to Washington today en route to Lakehurst from Germany.

The Zeppelin arrived over Washington at 12:10 o'clock.

It will fly over Baltimore and Philadelphia before arriving at its destination about 4 o'clock.

Crossing the American coast at 10:10 a. m. at Cape Charles, Va., the monster dirigible with its crew of 40 and 20 passengers altered its course to swing over the nation's capital.

RADIOS TO COOLIDGE

As the ship headed over Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac River, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, sent a radio message of greetings to President Coolidge. He asked permission to fly over Washington. Mr. Coolidge at once replied to Dr. Eckener and ordered the permission granted.

Washington was taken completely by surprise by the Zeppelin's visit. All along it had been thought from the airship's course that it would run to Lakehurst over a more direct inland route.

Even before the Zeppelin arrived the news of its impending visit spread like wildfire in Washington. It seemed that everybody in town had their necks craned to the sky to catch the first glimpse of the air liner. Government departments poured out their employes by the thousands. Business was temporarily paralyzed. Traffic came to a virtual standstill. Everybody shouted and pointed to the Zeppelin as slowly it circled over the naval air station at Anacostia, over the Capitol, and with majestic stride flew over the White House, where President Coolidge waved a greeting.

107 HOURS IN AIR

By its epochal flight, the Zeppelin linked Europe and America together by commercial passenger and air line. It is expected to be the forerunner of a regular trans-Atlantic service.

On the flight of more than 107 hours, the dirigible battled much of the way against bad weather and adverse winds. A sudden rain and squall ripped the cover off its port horizontal stabilizer. This reduced

MOTHER AND BABE SHARE IN JAWORSKI REWARD

Part of the reward for the capture of Paul Jaworski will go to support Catherine Petak, of McKees Rocks, and her seven-month-old baby, Judge James B. Drew today ordered the $5,000 offered for the capture of Jaworski turned over to John Zazworski, whose tip to Cleveland police resulted in the capture of Jaworski, provided Zazworski carried out an agreement with the girl to give her $1,000.

When Zazworski went to collect the reward, it was discovered that, although District Attorney S. H. Gardner had recommended the payment of the reward to Zazworski, the county commissioners had not yet authorized the payment. As a result Zazworski was returned to jail, where he has been since Saturday, when his bondsman surrendered him. The commissioners meet tomorrow.

Zazworski had been charged by the girl's father with a misdemeanor and could not collect the reward until he answered that charge. Today the principals in the case appeared in court and it was explained that the $1,000 settlement had been reached. He pleadnolo contendree. It was then that Judge Drew ordered the reward paid, providing the girl was given what was promised her.

When Judge Drew learned that Zazworski was the man who had furnished the tip that led to Jaworski's arrest he complimented him on aiding in the capture.

SMITH INVADES MISSOURI FOR SPEECH

Whoopee! Rah! 12-6! :-: No School at Duquesne U Today :-: They 'Paint' the Town!

VICTORY THEIRS!

There is no school today at Duquesne University. For Duquesne won a football game Saturday—not an ordinary game but one with W. & J. So more than 1,500 Duquesne students in more than 200 automobiles upset the Golden Triangle this afternoon, tooting and shrieking and dancing and shouting. Above is W. & J.

SPIRIT

Duquesne University students gave, perhaps, the greatest demonstration ever of their school spirit and a lot of worry to traffic policemen. There weren't enough cars, of course, but that mattered little. Look how many a rumble seat holds! The parade wended its lenghty way to Oakland to tell Pitt and Carnegie Tech of the 12-6 victory.

ROWDY-DE-DOW!

Of the 1,500 and more, these three were among the noisiest, they boasted. Noise, of course, was the main object. Here are Betty Nussbaum, Peggy Kenna and Peggy Nussbaum. Players on the team were "guests" in the parade.

EVERYONE THERE

Everyone was in the parade but the coach, it seems. Elmer Layden, chief coach, was unable to participate, but Assistant Coach Pat Reagan and John Holahan were to be seen once in a while in the grand melee, expected to last until late tonight.

PAINT

Paint was important, very important. Here Betty Dailey demonstrates how it was chiefly used. Even "We Want Pitt" was emblazoned from some of the cars!

ZEP SALUTES COOLIDGE; FLIES OVER WASHINGTON

the liner's speed. The work of repairing the damage in midair was an exceptional feat. The Zeppelin flew far to the south off its course to run out of the poor weather conditions. Aviation officials said the flight under such adverse circumstances proved the worthiness of the Zepelin and its crew.

Its motors droning steadily, the great, gray airship hove into view from the south and east. It had followed the course of the Potomac River from the Virginia Capes.

Despite the heavy weather, the nose of the Zeppelin shone like silver.

After swing wide over the Capital and the Congressional Library, the Zeppelin made direct for the heart of the downtown business district. It circled just to the left of the International News Service Building.

Through powerful glasses it was possible to distinguish human figures leaning out of the windows at the side of the ship. The passengers and crew waved frantically and just as enthusiastically the crowds that jammed the streets and roof tops waved and cheered back.

RIP VISIBLE

The rip in the ship's port stabilizer was plainly visible. It was in jagged cuts as if the wind had torn it savagely.

On the prow, in red letters seemingly several feet high, were the words: "Graf Zeppelin."

Back of this came the markings, "D-LZ127."

The motors roared like a dozen airplanes.

The Zeppelin traveled at a high rate of speed over the city. It was not 1,000 feet in the air.

The Zeppelin did not tarry long. After circling over the White House, it flew off to the East toward Baltimore. It climbed as it disappeared and was soon lost in the mists and clouds.

Like tiny wasps beside the monster of the air, a dozen government and private airplanes circled and dived and flew around it.

SALUTES COOLIDGE

As an official salute to President Coolidge, the dirigible dipped its nose twice as it passed over the White House.

Mr. Coolidge had just finished shaking hands with a number of visitors when he was told the Zeppelin was overhead. He rushed out to the front of the executive offices. Persons near him did not recognize the President, so intent were they in watching the airship. Noticing the Zeppelin turning over the White House, Mr. Coolidge fairly ran over to the south porch of the mansion, where he joined Mrs. Coolidge. She had a pair of binoculars glued to her eyes.

When the Graf Zeppelin flew over the Navy Department at a height of 1,000 feet, Secretary of the Navy Wilbur and a number of naval officers stationed on the roof of the building, plainly saw the badly torn port fin. They were able to see the sky above through the torn part of the vessel.

People climbed to precarious vantage points on top of all federal buildings to watch the Zeppelin. Even the White House roof had its share.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, like hundreds of Treasury Department employes, watched the liner from the middle of East Executive avenue, which divides the White House and the Treasury.

As the ship passed over the downtown section, several of the passengers dropped notes and postcards overboard. There was a wild scramble as the messages fell. One fell on top of a building at Fourteenth and F streets.

PASSES BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Oct. 15.—(INS.)—En route from Washington to Lakehurst, the Graf Zeppelin passed over Baltimore at 1:02 p. m.

Traveling at an estimated speed of 50 miles an hour, the airship flew over the center of Baltimore at a low altitude. It turned in a northeast direction toward Philadelphia.

Thousands of people crowded the streets to view it.

ZEP PASSES OVER PHILA.

police and special marine officers were out in force to maintain order.

An air of tenseness began to pervade the hangar where listnessness had prevailed for hours.

It was announced that if the Graf Zeppelin does not reach Lakehurst before 3 o'clock she will not circle New York City as had been planned because she contemplates a daylight landing. If, however, she makes fast time during the remainder of the distance from Cape Charles she may shoot up to New York and then circle back to this field. It was said that the dirigible could remain aloft another day if she desired because she had enough fuel to travel five days at high speed. She has not been going at full speed, and no doubt will reach here with plenty of fuel on hand.

COOK SLASHES 2 IN FIGHT

Patrick Lacey, 28, of Tammany way, Homestead, strolled into the Crystal Restaurant, Eighth avenue and McClure street, this morning, and a few moments later was carried out. He engaged in a fight with George Duwis, cook, and when Steve Brant, of Braddock, delivering bread, entered, police say Lacey attacked Brant. In the melee both Lacey and Brant were cut. Both were taken to Homestead Hospital and then Lacey was taken to the police station, charged with felonious assault and battery.

Flee With $100,000 Mail

International News Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Postal authorities today joined local police in a far-flung search for four bandits armed with machine guns who early in the day held up a taxicab carrying mail, shot four men and escaped with registered mail of an undetermined amount.

Police of nearby towns and Canadian frontier points have been furnished with descriptions of the robbers and the automobile in which they were riding and asked to keep a sharp lookout for them.

Postal authorities were unable to state the amount of the loss until they could check up with points of origin of the mail. Eight sacks of registered mail were stolen, however, and it was believed the loot would exceed $100,000.

It is the custom of the Postoffice Department every Sunday night to take registered mail from the New York Central Depot to the Lackawana Railroad Station, six blocks away, in a taxicab.

Francis Bilber, 25, a mail porter; Ward McCartney, 32, of Elkhart, Ind., a mail clerk, and Charles Kavanaugh, a railroad detective, were riding in a cab driven by Arnold Kohl.

The cab stopped for a traffic light. A touring car drove alongside and four men opened fire with machine guns and sawed-off shotguns.

McCartney fell, probably fatally wounded. Bilber and Kavanaugh suffered several bullet wounds. Kohl was not hurt.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Forty-six Chinese were under arrest today following the outbreak of Tong warfare last night which resulted in the death of Lin Sing, 72, a naturalized citizen, said to have been a member of the On Leong Tong.

Lin Sing, believed to have been on a visit here from Boston, was shot to death in a pistol duel with two other Chinese close to the heart of the Chinese quarter in Philadelphia. The Chinese under arrest here are suspected to be members of the Hip Sing Tong.

ABOARD GRAF ZEPPELIN, 1:15 P. M (12:45 p. m. Pittsburgh time), Oct. 14.—At this moment we are 80 miles east by north of Bermuda. Commodore Eckener is now steering his course to pass 15 miles south of Bermuda in the hope of taking advantage of the favorable winds which weather reports indicate as prevailing in that area.

We are running at a 22 miles per hour ground speed and bucking a head wind blowing 35 miles an hour.

Everybody on board is well, but some of the passengers are beginning to think that the joke is being too long drawn out. If it lasts much longer it may become necessary to ration food supplies. Food is becoming scarcer aboard ship and it was reported in the dining room this noon that there is danger of our being reduced to bread, caviar and champagne before the journey is over.

However, everybody remains wonderfully cheerful, and Lady Drummond Hay, the only woman passenger, who has never lost her good nature, has become the idol of the ship.

'DUKES' MAKE 'WHOOPEE' TO CELEBRATE VICTORY

The "Dukes" made "whoopee" today!

Swarming from the Bluff in a long stream of automobiles; bands playing; pennants flung to the breeze, the entire Duquesne University student body coeds included, abandoned classes for the day and made the city ring with school songs and yells.

And the reason for this glorious celebration is Saturday's football victory over Washington and Jefferson. The "Dukes" claim they have the best football team in history.

Beginning at 9 o'clock this morning when the students began gathering on the Bluff for classes, which school authorities called off for the day, Saturday and Sunday's celebration was revived with renewed vigor.

The parade included more than 1,500 cheering students. The howling procession went down Shingiss street to Forbes street, down Sixth to Fifth to Penn avenue and thence to Oakland where the victorious students planned to serenade both the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The first 10 automobiles carried members of Duquesne's victorious grid squad. Coach Elmer Layden was unable to participate in this morning's celebration, but the faculty was represented by his assistant, Pat Reagan and Graduate Manager John Holohan.

something more practical than mere preaching.

Lord Melchett says British Labor desires no revolt, or revolution, which is true.

The British learned one lesson watching the French Revolution, watching the heads dropping, and another lesson watching the Russian Revolution.

The upper class, including royalty, learned an important lesson from Oliver Cromwell.

That gentleman who never lost a battle, whose mere name frightened kings for years after his death, created wholesome respect for the people's power.

COOLIDGE RADIO MESSAGE WELCOMES ZEPPELIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—President Coolidge today radioed his congratulations to Dr. Hugo Eckener on board the airship Graf Zeppelin on his successful crossing of the Atlantic. Simultaneously he cabled congratulations to President Von Hindenburg of Germany. Dr. Eckener had, upon reaching the American coast line, radioed greetings to Mr. Coolidge.

"It gives me great pleasure," President Coolidge radioed Dr. Eckener, "to congratulate you upon the success of your voyage from Germany and to assure you that your arrival is welcomed as a symbol of the advance in air transportation which has been so ably furthered by your efforts and those of your compatriots. I wish to thank you for the message greeting from you and the crew of the Graf Zeppelin upon crossing the Coast line of the United States in this first trip by airship with passengers and mail from Germany to this country."

From the airship Dr. Eckener had radioed Mr. Coolidge as follows:

"At the moment of reaching the American coast line on this diversified and very interesting initial crossing of the Atlantic Ocean by airship with passengers and mail from Germany to America in which we have had as comrade and experienced friend Lieutenant Commander Rosendahl of the United States Navy, the commander and crew of the Graf Zeppelin beg to extend to the President of the United States their most respectful greeting."

President Coolidge's cable to President Von Hindenberg read:

"I wish to congratulate you upon the splendid achievement of your compatriots in accomplishing the voyage from Germany to the United States on the 'Graf Zeppelin'. This flight has filled the American people with admiration and has marked another step in the progress of the development of air communication."

SMITH CARRIES FIGHT INTO MISSOURI

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

EN ROUTE WITH GOV. SMITH IN ILLINOIS, Oct. 15.—Gov. Al Smith left the South and its turbulent receptions today and struck westward through Southern Illinois and Missouri.

His objective was Sedalia, Mo., where tomorrow night he will deliver one of the major speeches of his border states tour.

Gov. Smith left Kentucky and Tennessee entirely satisfied with the situation from the Democratic standpoint. In both states he was told that prior to his coming there was considerable doubt as to the outcome in November, but that his visit and his speeches had turned the tide toward Democratic victory three weeks hence.

LEADERS OPTIMISTIC

Amost without exception the state leaders in Tennessee and Kentucky speeded the Democratic nominee on his way with these assurances. A month ago they were pessimistic. But today, thanks to the Smith invasion and considerable financial assistance from New York headquarters, the state leaders were all optimistic and confident.

The Smith special cut across southern Illinois today, bound for St. Louis, where the principal stop of the day was scheduled.

Illinois is one of those states which the Democrats have been looking at with covetous eyes, notwithstanding the traditional Republicanism that is almost synonomous with the name. Not in a generation has Illinois cast her 29 electoral votes for a Democrat for President, save in 1912, the year of the Republican split.

Nevertheless, Gov. Smith and his advisers are exceedingly hopeful this year. Their hopes are predicated upon the agricultural disaffection in the Republican districts downstate, and the enormous wet vote in Chicago. They are counting, too, on the influence that Frank O. Lowden's defeat at Kansas City will have, for Lowden was and is a very popular man in Illinois, particularly downstate, where Republican majorities are the accepted thing While Lowden has done nothing, at least openly, to hurt the Hoover candidacy, he has done little to advance it.

STRIVE FOR ILLINOIS

The importance of Illinois in the Democratic scheme of things is exemplified by the fact that Gov. Smith will spend considerable time in the state on this trip. He cut across Southern Illinois today en route to Sedalia, and Wednesday he will be back in the state, not to leave it until Saturday. Three nights will be spent in Chicago. Gov. Smith has not stayed anywhere, save Albany, that long since he was nominated for the presidency. He is going to make a real bid for Illinois.

The Democratic nominee will reach Sedalia, Mo., tonight. The selection of Sedalia as the speaking point in Missouri was due to the Missouri leaders. They have told Gov. Smith that normally Republican, St. Louis is his anyway, but that rural Missouri, where the religious and prohibition issues are keen is fighting territory. Accordingly, they preferred him to speak in Sedalia, in the western part of the state, rather than in St. Louis. Two hours, however, will be spent in St. Louis en route to Sedalia.

Coal Men Band for Market

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Coal operators of Western Pennsylvania have banded together to regain coal markets lost through unfavorable changes in freight rates.

An organization to be known as the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau was formed at a meeting held last week, it was announced today by A. B. McElvany, secretary of the new association.

The organization will replace the Pittsburgh Coal Operators' Rate Committee, which was supported only by the coal interests of the immediate Pittsburgh district. This organization has represented local coal interests in their fights before the Interstate Commerce Commission since the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association disbanded two years ago.

Mr. McElvany stated he could not announce the number of operators supporting the new organization at this time because all of the companies who will be represented were not able to attend the initial meeting. "Practically all of the coal mining companies of Western Pennsylvania will be members," he said.

"The purpose of the organization is to attempt to get back for Western Pennsylvania coal its natural and logical markets which in recent years have been taken away from this district largely through inequitable freight rates," pointed out Mr. McElvany's statement.

The new organization will take up the fight of this district for more satisfactory rates in the Lake Cargo Coal Case as well as in other less important disputes.

All of the leading coal producers are represented on the board of directors.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, is chairman.

Other directors are:

S. Pemberton Hutchinson, president Westmoreland Coal Company, Philadelphia; T. W. Guthrie, vice president, Hillman Coal and Coke Company; H. F. Wilson, president, Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company; George A. Francis, secretary, Keystone Coal and Coke Company, Greensburg, Pa.; B. H. Canon, general manager, Clinton Block Coal Company; R. Templeton Smith, secretary, Poland Coal Company.

AUTO CLUB HEAD HURT WELCOMING GERMANS

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 15.—Struck by an automobile and catapulted down the mountain into a creek, near the Maryland state line, James H. Dunn, president of the Uniontown Motor Club, is not believed to be badly hurt. He suffered a probable fractured arm and fractured ribs. Mr. Dunn had gone to the state line to meet the members of the Allemeiner Deutscher Automobile Klub, four hours late in reaching Uniontown.

SULLIVAN CO. FINAL STRAW POLL GIVES HOOVER 2 TO 1

Herbert Hoover is a 2-to-1 favorite over Gov. Alfred E. Smith in Sullivan county, which has reached its quota of votes in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania conducted by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

This county, rural in character and located in Northeastern Pennsylvania, is one of the least populous of counties. Its total vote for President in 1924 was 2,736. Coolidge received 1,668 votes, Davis, 913, and La Follette, 155.

Hoover is given 105 votes and Smith 52 in the poll of this county. The Republican strength increases from 60 per cent of the vote in 1924 to 67 per cent in the poll. The Democratic strength remains stationary.

Fourteen women voted in the Sullivan county poll, 10 supporting Hoover and four voting for Smith. The Democratic candidate will benefit by party defections in the county. Eight Hoover supporters voted for Davis in 1924 and 23 Coolidge voters now favor Smith. All are men. Of six La Follette voters, four favor Smith and two are for Hoover. There are 12 votes for Hoover and seven for Smith cast by voters who did not vote in 1924.

The total of ballots from the 67 counties of the state reaches 85,402 with the latest returns, and Hoover is 21,136 ahead of Smith.

The Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, stands as follows: Hoover, 53,269, including 42,664 men and 10,605 women; Smith 32,133, including 24,778 men and 7,355 women.

This vote in 1924 was divided as follows: Coolidge, 58,655, including 46,879 men and 11,776 women; Davis, 9,342 including 7,847 men and 1,495 women; LaFollette, 5,303; not voting, 12,102.

GIRL ROUTS NEGRO WHO BEATS HER; FRIEND FLEES

Dragged from a parked auto at Morgan and Brackenridge streets last night, Victoria Adrara, 23, of Sharpsburg, put up a furious battle with a Negro who posed as a policeman and finally put him to flight.

With one of her eyes blackened, Miss Adrara appeared in Morals Court today as a witness against William Jones, 28, Negro, of Brackenridge street, who was held for court on a charge of assault and battery and impersonating an officer.

Miss Adrara testified she was sitting in an auto with a friend when Jones appeared and flashed a badge. She was pulled from the car and her friend fled. Jones was arrested a short time after the attack. He denied the charge.

FORWARD GONDOLA UNDER NOSE OF GRAF ZEPPELIN

The giant Graf Zeppelin, Queen of the Air, the largest airship ever to cruise, has offered to its crew and passengers on its trip across the Atlantic Ocean comforts of the largest ocean liners and the finest mansions. Here is a close-up of the forward and main gondola, swung below the nose of the great gasbag. In this are located the bridge, pilots' cabins, radio room, kitchen, dining room and cabins for passengers, all elaborately equipped. Storage rooms and quarters for the crew are located in the steel framework of the air vessel.

HOOVER TELLS OF FAITH IN NEW ENGLAND

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 15.—Given a tumultuous welcome to New England, Herbert Hoover here today appealed to the American people, as a body, to take an active interest in politics generally and in the coming election in particular.

Hoover told a crowd of 10,000, which gathered around the end of his private train, that the issues of the campaign were so important, every voter should take "vital interest" in the election.

He was introduced to the gathering by Mayor Fordis C. Parker, of Springfield, who declared "Massachusetts is all right and safe while Springfield is owned by Hoover."

"I can assure our distinguished guest," the Mayor added, "That he is among friends in the zone of Calvin Coolidge."

LAUDS COOLIDGE

The Republican nominee, making his first invasion of New England, paid a glowing compliment to President Coolidge, he told the crowd that he expected Massachusets to go Republican, if for no other reason, as a commendation of Coolidge's administration as President.

"I appreciate your coming out here to give me this greeting," Hoover began. "I thank you for its generosity. I have been here many times before on previous occasions and many missions."

Hoover apologized for avoiding a political speech, in view of his scheduled address in the arena at Boston tonight.

"Your coming here at this hour of the morning (8:30 a. m.)," Hoover added, "Gives evidence of your interest in this campaign and this election. It is of vital importance that our whole people take an interest in this election."

"It is a time when vital issues are before the country and it is a time when the Republican party needs your interest. We are presenting amid other issues, the record of seven and a half years of Calvin Coolidge as President and that should be a commendation of our party to the people of Massachusetts. I feel the Republican party should be supported in this election by the pillar of Republicans, the state of Massachusetts."

STRESSES RESPONSIBILITY

In touching on President Coolidge, Hoover said "his administration presented more than a record."

"It presents a program of policies that are based upon a sense of responsibility for their execution," Hoover added. "I trust you will give to that program your most earnest consideration and that the Republicans of Massachusetts will not fail in their registration and in their vote."

Hoover arose early but his first appearance was here. His train continued toward Boston, by way of Worcester, immediately after the nominee spoke here.

LADY HEATH, AVIATRIX, TO FLY OVER AMERICA

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Lady Heath, British aviatrix, holder of a women's altitude record, plans to begin a goodwill air tour of the United States next month, M. M. Warren, president of the Moth Aircraft Corporation, announced here. Her itinerary calls for a transcontinental flight from here to Seattle, down the Pacific Coast to San Diego, thence eastward to New York via St. Louis and Washington.

RECOVER $1,000 HOLD SUSPECT

State police at Greensburg are holding Edward Martinelli, 19, of Blythedale, whom they accuse of holding up the Italian Co-operativeStore at Blythedale late Saturday night and escaping with $1,000. Martinelli was arrested on a freight train near McKeesport, on which, police say, he was fleeing from the scene of the robbery. The money was recovered, the police report.

Flourishing two revolvers, a robber entered the store and, after threatening the manager and a customer, took the money from the till. Witnesses informed police the robber boarded a freight train, and telephone communication to McKeesport police resulted in the arrest.

N. J. COMPANY'S AGENT SLAIN; $2,500 STOLEN

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15.—(INS.)—George B. Lee, 36, agent of the Public Service Co-ordinated Transport, was shot and killed in the cashiers cage at the company's Lake street terminal this morning by a bandit who escaped with $2,500 in receipts.

W. H. ZOLLER, 62, PACKER, DIES

William H. Zoller, 62, widely known packer, died yesterday at his home, 3851 Perrysville avenue, North Side. He had been engaged in the packing business here for more than 50 years. He was a life long resident of Pittsburgh, having been born on the North Side.

Mr. Zoller was a member of the First United Presbyterian Church. He leaves four sons, William L., Harry R., Clarence H., and Louis Zoller; his mother, Mrs. Sophia Zender Zoller; four brothers, Louis, Harry, George and Charles Zoller; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Steinbocker, Mrs. Emma Eichelman and Mrs. Mamie Rieseck, and five grandchildren, all of Pittsburgh. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his late residence and burial will be in the Uniondale Cemetery.

PERPETUAL MOTION BRINGS COURT ACTION

DR. DAY HITS WHISPERING; PLEADS FOR TOLERANCE

A denouncement of religious intolerence was preached last night by the Rev. Dr. Albert Edward Day, pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church. His sermon topic was "The Religious Bogey; a Defense of American Catholics."

He contended that whisperings and distrust were spoiling the fine relationship between Protestants and Catholics. He declared that qualification for the presidency depended entirely on the man. He quoted a Catholic editor as the authority for a statement that 5,000,000 pamphlets had been distributed in a week by those who are attempting to bring the religious issue into politics. One of the statements i these pamphlets is a declaration that Catholics take vows to recognize no higher authority than the church, he said.

Dr. Day said his purpose was to lift his voice in behalf of American Catholics and plea for tolerance.

MURREN GOES TO CLEVELAND TO CLAIM JAWORSKI

DECIDE TODAY WHO IS TO GET MURDERER

Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren went to Cleveland today to help settle the question whether Paul Jaworski, arch killer and jailbreaker, shall be returned to Pittsburgh.

Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton, of Cuyahoga county, had asked District Attorney S. H. Gardner to attend the conference, but the latter was too busy with the grand jury vice-graft probe and he delegated Murren.

Cleveland authorities announced that a decision as to Jaworski would be reached today. Jaworski was convicted of first degree murder here after confessing to payroll murders. He is held in Cleveland, charged with murder, for shooting to death a policeman in an attempt to escape.

15 ARRESTED IN CARNEGIE RAIDS

Carnegie police late Saturday and early yesterday arrested 15 men in four raids on establishments in the borough in which small quantities of liquor were confiscated, police say.

Five visitors were reported arrested at the Panhandle Hotel, West Main street, and six at an alleged speakeasy conducted by Roman Puznakowski in the rear of 205 West Main street. Matro Karpinsky and William Duffey were arrested as the proprietors of establishments at Eighth and West Main streets and in the Campbells Run road, respectively.

Slugged Officer Holds to Pair, Takes Third

Beaten by a gang attempting to take two prisoners from him yesterday afternoon at Reedsdale street and Galveston avenue, Patrolman Joseph Schmidt, of the North Side Station, cut and bruised, succeeded in holding the prisoners and also arresting an alleged leader of the gang.

Schmidt reported that he had arrested John Skelton, 23, and Harry Tinkle, 22, both of Reedsdale street, after they had engaged in a fight on the street. Attacked while awaiting the patrol wagon, he said he arrested Edward Mock, of Reedsdale street. Mock is charged with being a suspicious person, and the others with disorderly conduct.

PASTOR DENIES THEOLOGY HAD PART IN CHURCH ROW

Fundamentalism and modernism have had no part in causing dissension among members of the South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, resulting in the Callender Men's Bible class being barred from using the church rooms and the members leaving for other congregations, the Rev. Dr. Sheridan Watson Bell, pastor declared yesterday.

For the first time since the controversy arose, more than a year ago, Dr. Bell made public his side and the church board's side of the argument.

Yesterday morning the pastor read a prepared statement to the congregation. At the same time the members of the Bible class were holding services in Malta Temple, taught by T. Morton Sankey, ousted as class teacher by the church board.

Dr. Bell's statement in part follows:

BREAKS SILENCE

"You will bear witness that no reference has been made at any time from this pulpit to the unhappy circumstances that have existed in South avenue for some months, nor have the officials of the church made or published any statement. It is fitting that something should be said this morning.

"The sole question from first to last has been whether South avenue should continue to be a Methodist Episcopal Church. There has been no other issue. Fundamentalism or modernism has never been mentioned during all these months by either the pastor or the official board, and no act of either has been colored by any theological issue. The whole matter has been an administrative one. There has been no complaint of the theology of any teacher and no effort to suggest the interpretation of the lessons.

DENIES DICTATION

"The Methodist Episcopal Church is an inclusive church. It has a place for every sincere conviction, liberal and progressive. It has always stood for a glorious liberty. It has no standardized interpretation of spiritual truth. It thinks and lets think.

"The Methodist Episcopal Church is a connectional church. It is not congregational—it is governed by representatives. Its conferences are the sole judges of the validity, soundness and efficiency of its ministry.

"The Methodist Episcopal Church is administered from within. Its book of discipline prescribes every form of organization and the methods of its administration. Its trustees, stewards, Sunday school and Epworth League officers and teachers, the head of its women's societies are all constituted in the one way that its books of discipline provide.

BACKED BY AUTHORITY

"Our local trouble has been an attempt to override all three of these distinctive features of the Methodist Episcopal Church and had to be resisted. Every step in that resistance has been taken at the suggestion and with the council of its chief executives in the Pittsburgh conference.

"No one could regret more than I do the necessity for the drastic action of the trustees that excluded members of the Sunday school from their class room, and this was done only after every other resource had failed. I personally have no particle of ill feeling against any one who has been involved in this controversy. I am the friend, and should like to be the pastor of every one, and shall be in my spirit and purpose."

TWO DROWN AS BOAT UPSETS ON LYNN LAKE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Two young men were drowned when a motorboat capsized on Lynn Lake, Cheat River. John Plummer Sheets, 25, and Troy Gribble, 27, both of Morgantown, met death. Newton Miller, a third member of the party, reached shore in safety. The young men were crossing the lake with their three hunting dogs, which they planned to exercise on Cheat mountain. The boat tipped over when they tried to change seats.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

4 KILLED IN PLANE CRASHES

AGED MAN HIT BY AUTO DIES

Hit by an automobile while crossing Sterrett street at Hamilton avenue yesterday, William Callinor, 70, of 7349 Bennett street was fatally injured. He died en route to Pittsburgh Hospital. Frank Finley, of 1010 Rebecca street, Wilkinsburg, today will post bond for appearance at an inquest.

Four persons were injured and three automobiles damaged last night in a collision in Bigelow boulevard at Washington street. Edwin Baur, 29, his wife and their son, Bruce, 2, of 4021 Mintwood street and J. Maraelty, 23, a Negro, of 32 Lane way, were treated at Mercy Hospital. The Baur family were riding in the machine of Frank J. Kern, 42, of 417 Fisk street, which collided with a machine driven by Henry Thompson, 32, a Negro, of Morning street, in which Maraelty was riding. Kern's machine also struck a taxicab. Kern and Thompson were arrested.

WOMAN AMONG DEAD; STUDENT CRASHES

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Four persons are dead today and several seriously injured as a result of week-end airplane crashes.

Mrs. V. N. Marker, of Evanston, Ill., was killed almost instantly last night when the plane in which she was riding struck a wire and went into a nose dive. The crash occurred near Waukegan, Ill. Her husband and the pilot were seriously injured. An 8-year-old daughter of the Marker's escaped uninjured.

Raymond Ott, 19, aviation student, was instantly killed yesterday when his machine crashed 800 feet and burst into flames near the Chicago municipal airport.

At Dayton, O., Casten A. Roepken, 36, garage man and amateur aviator, and H. B. Rice, 34, a passenger, were killed in a flight in a home-made plane yesterday. The plane, said to have been powered with an obsolete motor, crashed into a smokestack at the Frigidaire plant here.

Roepken had built the machine in his shop and had piloted it recently against the advice of air officials.

GITLOW DENIES KIDNAPING

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Benjamin Gitlow, vice presidential candidate of the Workers' (Communist) party of America, who arrived in Houston late yesterday for his scheduled address, denied that he had been "missing."

Gitlow told Communist leaders here that he had stopped over in San Diego after he had received a telegram bearing the signature of the Works' party candidate for governor in Arizona, saying that Gitlow's speaking dates in that state had been cancelled.

Headquarters of the Workers' (Communist) party in New York had announced that a telegram received from William O'Brien, gubernatorial candidate of the party in Arizona, inferred that Gitlow had been kidnaped.

Nimrod, 83, Says Youths Are Too Slow

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—"I went hunting last year, but didn't bag a thing because the young men I was with weren't spry enough," exclaimed Hugh Smith, 83, of California, as he took out a license to hunt again this year. One of the oldest hunters in this district, he is an enthusiast in stalking game in the fields and woods.

He Thought Her an Angel

Until indigestion betrayed her

Oh, the sorrow of it! How was he to guess she did not mean those unkind words? How could she make him believe—how could she even tell him that indigestion was to blame for her loss of temper?

A single attack of temper-trying stomach trouble may change the whole course of one's life. You can't afford to consider a weak or disordered digestion as a little thing.

Get and take Triner's Bitter Wine regularly before each meal. This pleasing, stomach warming combination of California wine, cascara and herbs stimulates digestion and overcomes constipation—whets the appetite. Nothing else is like it. Starchy foods yield quickly. Far better and safer than habit-forming preparations. Two sizes, 75c and $1.25 at all druggists.

ERNST AUGUST

Ernst August, former Duke of Brunswick and husband of the former Kaiser Wilhelm's only daughter, Victoria Louise, is broke, Germany whispers. So he's authorized an art dealer to sell his collection of jewels and furniture, formerly owned by the Duke of Cumberland, for $10,000,000, but stipulates that it must be kept intact. The dealer's coming to America!

HEALTH CHIEF'S FUNERAL SET FOR 8 P.M.

Funeral services will be held tonight for Dr. R. G. Burns, head of the city health department, who died Saturday at St. Francis Hospital. The services will be held in the Willison chapel, Cedar avenue, North Side, at 8 o'clock.

The body will then be taken to Mt. Pleasant, Westmoreland county, for burial tomorrow. Dr. Burns had been suffering heart trouble for six weeks.

He had been head of the health department for about 18 months, succeeding the late Dr. C. J. Vaux. Prior to his appointment he had been superintendent of the bureau of infectious diseases. He had been in public health work here 32 years, his first position being with the department of charities for the old City of Allegheny. He leaves his widow, two sons and a daughter.

PAY OF JUDGES TO BE DEBATED

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—A recommendation that the Legislature confer on local governments the right to fix salaries for their own employes will be included in the report of the State Salary Survey Commission to the 1929 legislative session.

Announcement to that effect was made here in a statement of the commission, which will meet Wednesday to further discuss the question of equalizing the pay of various county and municipal officials. Among other subjects will be the proposed increase in pay for judges, which was referred to the commission by the last General Assembly.

There have been 465 salary bills passed by legislatures since 1874, the Commission said, and in addition to the many other benefits derived from giving greater home rule to municipalities, would be the saving of time ordinarily taken up by salary consideration in the Assembly.

TRICK RESTORES 'INFECTED' PETS

Officials of the Suburban General Hospital used a novel means to bring about a return of guinea pigs and rabbits that had been stolen from a building at the hospital several days ago.

A published warning hinted that the animals had been inoculated with disease germs and might at any time develop symptoms. The animals were returned to their quarters by a number of boys.

After the return, hospital attaches let it be known the animals had not been inoculated.

PITTSBURGHER GIVES ORDINATION SERMON

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—The Rev. John C. Broomfield, of Pittsburgh, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, preached an ordination sermon at Trinity Church, Ventnor, yesterday. Four candidates for ordination included W. C. Howard, Reyburn, Pa.

CASH REFUSED, BROKE WINDOW, POLICE SAY

There was no pay day for James Hart, no home, yesterday, so he threw bricks through three windows of the American Coffee House, at 412 Third avenue, police say. Patrolman Ray Kirch, who happened along, arrested Hart on a disorderly conduct charge. Hart said he had been refused wages due him.

STAGE AND SCREEN ACTIVITIES DETAILED IN PICTURES AND GOSSIP ABOUT PLAYERS

Tidings of Film Capital Chronicled in News Tales About New Productions and Those Appearing in Them

Dictum That "Show Goes On" Draws Widow of Comedian From Sorrow Into Picture

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.

NO matter what happens, the play, or the picture, must go on. That's show business. The latest instance is that of Dorothy Dwan, made a widow by the untimely death of Larry Semon, who at one time was a greater figure in the film world than Charlie Chaplin himself.

Dorothy had expected to enter upon a period of retirement from studio activities, to mourn in solitude and also to recuperate from the terrific strain to which she had been subjected during Larry's long illness on the desert. But she received a call to report on the lot for the role of leading lady in Tom Mix's new photoplay, "The Drifter." So the show goes on.

Tom Mix has three more pictures to make before he leaves Hollywood on a vaudeville tour, which seems likely to become an annual event like the circus, or the Wild West show. He will probably get away in the early spring. And it isn't at all impossible that he will fulfill European engagements at the time. If Tom Mix gets across to the other side his friends are hoping that the event may lead to a complete reconciliation between him and his wife, "Vicky," who is in Paris with their daughter, Thomasina.

Ralph Forbes, the attractive English actor who looks so much like the Prince of Wales, has been engaged by Columbia for the leading masculine role in "College Coquette." This is the picture in which Marie Prevost was supposed to star with Jimmy Murray as her leading man. But the best laid plans of picture producers sometimes go astray, and Columbia found itself without players for the picture when Marie walked out and Murray proved unavailable. Shooting has started under the direction of Christy Cabanne, with Forbes and Marceline Day finally cast in the troublesome roles.

Everyone is very much interested in a two-reeler which Lionel Barrymore has written and will direct for Metro. It is a talking picture, and upon its merit may depend whether Lionel will be handed a megaphone and made a regular director on the Lion's lot. He has wished to enter this phase of the industry for a long time, but this is his first opportunity to demonstrate that he can direct as finely as he acts. It would certainly be interesting to see Lionel direct a photoplay in which he was also starred.

Fifty-two thousand dollars' worth of "Nize Baby" is said to have been scrapped by Metro because it did not come up to the standards of the studio. Production has been discontinued for at least a month, and when the film is reshot it will be under a different director and with several changes in the cast. Sally Eilers, Alexander Carr and Lou Waldridge will be replaced by players not yet selected.

Irving Cummings, who was shot in to direct "In Old Arizona" when Raoul Walsh was temporarily put out of the picture through a motor accident, also is having his troubles. Part of the production has already been shot, with Walsh playing a role in which Warner Baxter is now cast. And it isn't easy to pick up the thread. Besides this, Maria Alba turns out to be not quite "the type," and is having difficulty with her movietone lines because of her English spoken a la Espagnola. Tests are being taken of Dorothy Burgess, who is on the local stage in "The Squall," but it may be that Fox will import a leading woman from the New York stage.

It may be just a coincidence. Then again . . . but, anyway, Evelyn Brent is going to New York. And Emil Jannings' new picture, "Ellis Island," is to be filmed in New York. And there isn't a thing on the Paramount schedule for Evelyn until next February. So why shouldn't she play the feminine lead opposite Jannings?

Kathryn Carver will not be leading lady to Adolphe Menjou in his film, "Marquis Preferred." Kathryn, who is Menjou's bride, will act a role in the Warner Brothers picture, "No Defense," in which Monte Blue and May McAvoy are starred.

Our prophesy department may take another bow because of confirmation of the news printed some weeks back that Lowell Sherman will act the role of the butler in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." Needless to say, it is a most important part.

Some time in the very near future Paramount plans a photoplay which should be well provided with dramatic red meat. It is a "Fata Morgana" type of story, telling the tale of a young boy's love for an older woman. Of course, on the screen, the story will be toned down considerably, for the movies will never attain the freedom of expression accorded to the stage and to literature. But nevertheless, it should be a gripping picture.

"Buddy" Rogers is to be the boy in the case. And the siren for whom he "falls" will be none other than the gorgeous Russian, Baclanova, most important of the new stars. There will be another girl, of course. But her part will be of secondary importance, and she has not yet been chosen. The direction may fall to Dorothy Arznec, who has just completed "Manhattan Cocktail," the finest effort she has yet accomplished. Miss Arzner, one of the very few girl directors, has had rather sensational success with her photoplays starring Clara Bow and Esther Ralston.

"The Man and the Moment," is the interesting title of Billie Dove's new picture. It seems bound to be as peppy as it sounds. For Madame Glyn, herself, stands sponsor for the story. In any event the fans are assured of plenty of beauty. If Billie Dove's presence in the photoplay isn't sufficient guarantee of this, know that George Fitzmaurice will direct. And there never was a Fitzmaurice production that hadn't oodles of artistic beauty.

Harold Lloyd plays a wicked game of handball. But it will be some time before he plays again. Harold hit the ball a particularly vicious wallop, and fractured a bone in his left arm. A little rehash of the shooting schedule on Harold's picture, permitted production to be carried on. But the sequences will be those not requiring Harold's presence for a week, anyway.

"Dancing Daughters," Joan Crawford's current picture, is making such a hit that no one would be a bit surprised to see the titian-haired Joan promoted to individual stardom before the year ends. In fact, if a story can be found within a reasonable time, Joan may find herself a star before the year ends. By the way, she has broken her silence regarding her romance with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., sufficient to say that it won't be long now before there are more wedding bells.

Mrs. Wallace Reid's new picture is to have an excellent cast. The widow of the beloved "Wally" has engaged Helen Foster for the leading feminine role, Warner Baxter for the hero and Noah Beery as the "menace." The name of the picture is "Linda," and it tells a story of the Kentucky mountains.

Mae Murray is back home after 14 weeks in vaudeville. She appears in a local theater for a week, and will then report for pictures on the Metro lot. Mae looks tired after her tour, and expresses herself as happy to be back with her husband, Prince M'Divani, and their baby. The same baby whose existence gave Hollywood such a surprise.

COMEDIAN'S SMILE :-: REGISTERED :-: IN LAST FADEOUT

Larry Semon, noted screen comedian, whose genial expansive grin has made millions laugh, has taken the long, long trail. Exigencies of picture making call his widow, Dorothy Dawn, from her grief to act a leading part in a Tom Mix film.

Here we have the famous film funster in one of the grotesque character roles which made him a fortune that fate snatched away, contributing to his untimely end.

Short comedies in which he portrayed amusing characters were his forte, but many will remember his flashy sport type in the Bancroft-Brent picture, "Underworld."

SEIZE STILL IN EAST END RAID

Patsy Rizzo, 32, of 8373 Bricelyn street, was held for court by Magistrate W. J. Soost in Frankstown Avenue Police Station today, charged with violating the Snyder act. Capt. Nunci Marino and a squad raided Rizzo's home, it was testified, and confiscated a 160-gallon still and destroyed 83 barrels of mash and other contraband. A truck standing at the curb was seized with its contents, 96 pounds of yeast and 24 sacks of corn sugar.

DEATH ROLL

William Hughes.

William Hughes, for 25 years owner of a drug store at Leetsdale, died Friday at Sewickley Hospital after a short illness. He was a native of England where he was connected with the drug trade as a boy. He was a member of Davage Lodge 378, F. & A. M. He leaves a son, Charles C. Hughes of Detroit; and three daughters, Mrs. J. R. Martin, Altoona, and Miss Helen and Miss Lillian Hughes at home.

Rody Fitzgibbon.

Rody Fitzgibbon, 42, 22 Jacobs street, Overbrook, died Friday morning in the Presbyterian Hospital. Mr. Fitzgibbon leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Hoffmann Fitzgibbon; his father, James Fitzgibbon, five children, two sisters and two brothers.

Mrs. A. B. Barlow.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 15.—Mrs. A. B. Barlow, 50, wife of a well known grocer of Franklin, died yesterday at Bashline Hospital, Grove City. The family resided in Townville for many years before coming here about six years ago.

Horowitz Gives Concert Here Tuesday

One hundred members of the Y. M. & W. H. A. have become patrons and patronesses of the 1928-29 major artists' series which will open tomorrow night in the Morris Kaufmann memorial auditorium, with Vladimir Horowitz, pianist. Other artists and the dates they appear are: Hulda Lashanska, soprano, December 3; Andres Segovia, guitarist, January 29, and Joseph Szigeti, violinist, February 26.

Vladimir Horowitz was most cordially received on his American debut last winter. He is only 24 years old and has played professionally but a few years. He has given concerts in practically every principal city in Europe. During 1922-23, he played 23 times in Petrograd. He will play the following program tomorrow night:

Sonata (Appassionata) op. 57, Beethoven; Two Intermezzi (op. 118, 119) and Rhapsody op. 119, Brahms; Fantasy F# minor, two Mazurkas and three etudes, Chopin; Jeux d'eu, Ravel; Doumka (scene rustique russe), Tschaikowsky; virtuosic variations on two themes of "Carmen," Horowitz.

PLAY BY SHAW TO OPEN

Beginning this evening, the Theater Guild of New York will present its fourth play in the Nixon, "Arms and the Man," by George Bernard Shaw. The cast, headed by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, includes Elliott Cabot, Ernest Cossart, Jane Wheatley, Hortense Alden and Hannam Clark.

McIntyre and Heath and their newest vehicle, "Headin' South," come to the Alvin for one week, opening next Monday evening, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Seats are on sale.

Pauline Frederick, equally famous on stage and screen, will be seen in "The Imperfect Lady" in the Pitt next week with the same company of players who supported her during her six months' run on the coast and three months' summer run in Detroit. It was formerly known as "The Scarlet Lady." Seats are on sale.

The attraction in the Nixon next week will be the new marine-aviation drama, "Davy Jones' Locker," by Richard Barry, a story of aviators, wreckers and mutiny, with a cast including Selena Royle, G. Pat Collins, Alden Chase, George Tawde and others.

Smooth skin all-important ...leading directors declare

THE innocent loveliness of petal-smooth skin can set heart-strings vibrating!

When the close-up reveals the full charm of the screen star's smooth, soft skin, a thrill of emotion grips the audience.

Famous directors say screen stars must keep their skin so smooth that even under the merciless glare of the close-up it is lovely.

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars. 417 of these use this fragrant, white soap. All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms. You, too, will love the smoothness it gives your skin.

"There is a caressing quality to Lux Toilet Soap that I have never before found except in costly French soaps—my skin feels so soft and smooth."

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapepsin may do as much for you.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

TWO political addresses, several noteworthy chain programs, including Wagner's opera, "Lohengrin," and a wealth of local entertainment go on the air tonight from the various Pittsburgh broadcasting stations.

The cast for the opera, which will be presented over WCAE at 10:30 o'clock, will include these soloists: Judson House, Hans Kraemer, Frederic Baer, Edward Wolter, Astrid Fjelde and Grace Leslie. Viola Philo, dramatic soprano of operatic and concert experience, will be heard with Roxy and His Gang when that organization entertains through KDKA at 7:30 o'clock. She will be assisted by other vocal and instrumental soloists, a chorus and an orchestra.

The Red Arrow Quartet, composed of J. F. Donaghy, first tenor; I. D. Schaffer, second tenor; C. W. McVicker, baritone; F. W. Schoeller, bass, and A. C. Bauman, pianist, will be heard on WCAE'S program tonight at 7 p. m. The entertainment will include these numbers: "Trav'lin'," "Lonesome in the Moonlight," "Then You'll Remember Me," "Round Evening," "Open Up the Gates of Glory" and "Nagasaki." Mr. Schaffer will sing "The Lost Chord," and the bass, Mr. Schoeller, will sing "Asleep in the Deep." This unit of singers claims a record of entertaining at 800 public functions, and of broadcasting over 32 radio stations in the United States and Canada.

The broadcast schedule of KDKA tonight includes a program of popular tunes by the Four One-Minute Demonstrators, at 7:30 o'clock. The program follows: "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," "Sunset," "My Ohio Home," "Tributes," baritone solo; "Back in Your Own Back Yard," "Morning," tenor solo, and "Ice Cream."

Extremely pleasing will be the Ceco Couriers' musical message to be broadcast by WJAS at 8 o'clock. Taking part in the Ceco Couriers' presentation will be a male quartet, orchestra, string quartet, mixed quartet and vocal soloists.

Following the pleasant strains of the Ceco theme song, the four Couriers which make up the male quartet will blend their voices in the old Welsh song, "Men of Harlech," in which they will be accompanied by the orchestra. A little later in the program this quartet offers the very popular "In This Hour of Softened Splendor," unaccompanied. Other bright spots on the program are: a tenor rendition of Charles Wakefield Cadman's "I Hear a Thrush at Eve;" the "Indian Love Call" from the musical success of several seasons ago, "Rose Marie," which the soprano will contribute; the beautiful Tschaikovsky "Andante Cantabile" to be played by the string quartet; and the Pilgrims' Chorus from Wagner's opera, "Tannhauser," which will be given a stirring rendition by the full ensemble.

PARK IN TRACT SOLD ERIE R. R. AT MEADVILLE

MEADVILLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Seventeen acres of land adjoining the yards of the Erie Railroad here have been purchased by the railroad, from Maj. Arthur C. Huidekoper. The tract includes a large part of what is known as Athletic Park, used for many years as a public playground. Erie officials would make no comment on the deal, other than that it was a matter of business foresight.

PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Marshel Clarke Reed to Be Married in Savannah

SOUTHERN CLUB OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

RECEIVING LINE

When the Southern Club observed its twenty-fifth birthday with a party at Hotel Schenley, Mrs. Arthur B. Lynn, president; { Mrs. Thomas B. Freeman and Mrs. Samuel McClay, Mrs. William A. Hemphill, Mrs. Charles B. Ellis and Mrs. C. C. Bunton, past presidents, were in the receiving line.

Marshel Clarke Reed To Marry in Savannah

PITTSBURGHERS have quite often been married in Europe, in the East and in the West, but very few of them in the South. This fall, though, there will be a wedding down in Savannah, Ga., that will interest many a member of society; for a Pittsburgh man will be the bridegroom, Marshel Clarke Reed, of Gulf, Tex., and this city.

His fiancee, Ellen Euphemia Postell, daughter of Mrs. John Cunningham Postell, of Savannah, has named Wednesday, November 14, as the date for their marriage.

The wedding will take place at 8:30 o'clock that night in the Savannah Episcopal Church, and of course, Mr. Reed's father and mother, the Thomas McKennan Reeds, will go south for the wedding. There will be others, too, from here, I daresay, at the ceremony, for Ellen is well known here. She has been the guest here of her college chum, Mary V. Flood, daughter of the M. B. Floods, of Forbes street.

HAVE you noticed the unusually large "all debutante" affairs that have been given this year? And now another one is planned for the buds, a luncheon to be given by Priscilla Barnes in her home on October 31. The guests of honor will be two of the season's debutantes, Elizabeth McCullough, daughter of the William T. McCulloughs, and Bettie Burger Dunlap, daughter of the Will Knox Dunlaps.

THE season of benefits is now approaching. One that always interests society women is the annual bridge benefit of the Soho Community House, Fifth avenue, to be held at the Hotel Schenley on Monday afternoon, October 29, at 2 o'clock.

The committee in charge of the event includes Mrs. J. J. Heard, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Mrs. Frank Kier, Mrs. H. N. Eavenson, Mrs. F. W. Edmondson and Mrs. George Bissell.

SOME dates already have been taken for the holiday season, but more will be announced, I'm sure, now that the date of the annual Yale Glee Club concern is known.

The day for this affair is Monday evening, December 31, and the place, as usual, Carnegie Music Hall. There are always dinners for the debutante set, at which the Yale men are guests, before the concert.

The alumni committee in charge of the concert includes Dr. Thomas S. Arbuthnot, Frank Faber Brooks, Erl C. B. Gould, Charles Oliver, James Verner Scaife, Jr., Thomas Watson and Southard Hay, who is chairman.

SOME time ago I told you who the girls of the bridal party would be for the marriage of Alice Childs, daughter of the James H. Childs, and Oliver P. Nicola, Jr., son of the Oliver P. Nicolas, on October 25. And now Mr. Nicola has named his best man and ushers.

Raymond Moreland will be his best man, and Stewart McClintic, Graham McCargo, McCook Reed, William Wooldridge, a cousin, all of Pittsburgh; Lindell Gordon, Jr., Calhoun Jones, both of St. Louis, and Claibourne Jones, of Cleveland, will be the ushers.

The evening before the wedding, Frank F. Nicola will give the rehearsal dinner in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

A MUCH entertained bud of this season is Rebecca Follansbee, daughter of the John Follansbees, of Squirrel Hill avenue. Among the events for her just made known are a luncheon-bridge to be given on October 27 by Mrs. James Barr and Mrs. Davis Scott Gaston in Mrs. Gaston's home, and a luncheon to be given on November 24 by Rebecca's aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Gilbert Follansbee, of Bigelow boulevard, in her home. The luncheon will be followed by a theater party. And on December 27 the William Uhler Follansbees will give a dinner in their home on Woodland road for the niece.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Vianna Mildred Johnston, of Hillsdale avenue, and Harry Fillmore Phillips, of West Liberty avenue, which was solemnized Saturday by the Rev. Ralph W. McKenzie, of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have left for a motor trip in the East and through the White Mountains, and after December 1 will be at home in Columbus, O.

OCTOBER 30 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Lois Eleanor McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orel McKenzie, of North Sheridan avenue, and William Charles Albertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Albertson, of Stanton avenue. The ceremony will be performed at 7:30 o'clock in the McKenzie home by the Rev. Dr. Rudolph E. Schultz, rector of Christ Church of Warren, O. Miss Ruth Martin, daughter of Mrs. James Stephen Martin, will be maid of honor and the bride's other attendants will be Mrs. Leslie Cook, of Cleveland; Mrs. Clark W. Green, of Salem, O., and Mrs. Carl Coslow. Wilbert Albertson will be his brother's best man and the ushers will include C. Hax McCullough, Wilford H. Murbach, Kenneth F. Vilsack, William T. McCullough and M. Gifford Musser.

WASHINGTON CLUB'S YEAR BOOK UNIQUE

THE comprehensive year books of the Washington Current Events Club reached the members some time ago. The books issued by this club are unlike those of any other organization in that they carry the complete programs of the club body as well as its numerous departments, art, current events, history and literature, home economics, civics and music. The club, which opened its season October 5, with president's day, will devote the November session to reports of the State Federation convention and election of new members. Dr. J. Clyde McGregor, of Washington and Jefferson College, is to make several addresses during the season. An event of unusual prominence will be the appearance of Cornelia Otis Skinner in dramatic monologues at an evening meeting on February 26.

Mrs. William S. Vance is president of the club; Mrs. George B. Montgomery is vice president; Miss M. Blanche Moffatt, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alexander Wright, recording secretary, and Mrs. Albert Allison, treasurer.

MRS. ERNEST HENRY BINGLER, president of the Oakland Woman's Club, is to be honored Friday with a reception in the Hotel Schenley. Mrs. J. W. Frey, chairman of the social committee, and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of the entertainment committee, have arranged the program which will be given by Alfred Herman Johnston, pianist; Mrs. W. L. Cunningham, soprano; Miss Janet Turner, violinist; Karl Emerson Williams, reader, and a quartet composed of Mrs. Thomas W. Noonan, Mrs. John H. Lauer, Miss Marie Sybert and Mrs. Thomas J. Carroll. Mrs. William H. Patterson and W. E. Knight will be accompanists.

MEMBERS of the Pittsburgh Girls' Conference have been invited to a tea to be given on Thursday afternoon at the Pennsylvania College for Women. The guest of honor will be Miss Frances McGough, who is in charge of the recreational project at Broughton, Pa., which is being sponsored by the Girls' Conference and the girls' workers who have come to Pittsburgh recently.

* * *

MRS. B. H. WILLIAMS will sing solo numbers Wednesday at the monthly meeting of the Zoar Home Auxiliary in Kaufmann's. Mrs. J. W. Ingold, Mrs. S. M. Edgar, Mrs. M. McClinton and Mrs. Charles Yahres, group leaders, will have a part in the program also. Installation of officers will take place.

* * *

MISS ELEANOR SMITH, girls' counselor at Oliver High School, will speak on "School Problems and Home Co-operation" at Thursday's meeting of the Chatham Parent Teacher Association.

THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN AND CONSTIPATION

Thousands of people eat bran regularly for the healthful roughage it provides. It is a splendid practice. But be sure you are really getting all the roughage you need when you eat bran. Doctors say it takes 100% bran to relieve constipation. Part-bran products, at best, can only accomplish part-way results. That is why they fail!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran. It furnishes roughage in effective quantities—and in the most effective form: cooked and krumbled. Just two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal—are guaranteed to relieve constipation.

You'll like the flavor and crispness of ALL-BRAN. Serve with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Mix with other cereals. Sprinkle into soups. Use in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MODERN HOUSEWIVES OUST OLD-FASHIONED CLEANING EQUIPMENT

O-Cedar Mops and Polish bring new hours of freedom and cleaner, brighter homes

Ever see an O-Cedar Mop in action? Go into any one of thousands of gleaming homes and you'll see why more women prefer this famous mop than any other kind. It fairly skims over the floor—right through the whole house—gathering up every speck of dust, cleaning and polishing in one easy operation.

The improved triangular O-Cedar Polish Mop cleans corners quickly and thoroughly, gets under radiators and into other inaccessible spots. Slip-on pad instantly removed and laundered when necessary. Easily renewed with fragrant O-Cedar Polish, which is as great for hardwood or waxen floors as it is for fine furniture and pianos.

At hardware, grocery, drug, department and other stores. Mops, 75c, $1, $1.25. Polish, 4-oz. bottle, 30c; 12 oz., 60c.

POISON LIQUOR KILLS FIVE IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 15.—Five persons lost their lives in this city last week from drinking poisoned liquor, a check revealed today. The latest victim was Irene King, whose friend, Frances Hitchcock, died several days ago. Miss King died yesterday after hours of agony. She told hospital attendants that she purchased the liquor from the same bootlegger who sold the poisoned whisky to Miss Hitchcock.

Dunlevy's Pork Sausage

Aesop's Fables No. 9709 (Modern)

Once upon a time there was a man who visited his family physician for much-needed advice. It seems his chief trouble was a tired, wornout feeling in the morning. In fact he just hated to arise. As a result he often missed the 8:10. Well, he was in a bad way, his business suffered, he suffered, etc. His prescription read: "Buckwheat cakes planked with Dunlevy Sausage. Open doors from kitchen to allow aroma to get upstairs." Folks, he is now a changed man. He gets out of bed like a fireman. Feels fine—never misses the 8:10.

WE ARE SPECIALISTS In Helping You Select the Right Coats

Do you know that the greater part of three floors are used to display the coats for women, misses and children?

The women of Pittsburgh and vicinity have learned, throughout recent years, that we are specialists in women's apparel that is high in everything but price. The quality, style and fit cannot be bettered anywhere, and is rarely equaled—and never bettered at the prices we ask.

Although we bring up the question of low prices, we never let our buyers be influenced by price in making selections for stock. Our first and deciding factor is quality and style—then if we can buy to advantage, we pass the bargains along to our thousands of loyal patrons.

We do not pretend to supply all the coats sold to the women, misses and children of this community, but we do have a most wonderfully complete selection for your choice. Come in and try on a few of the models most becoming to you.

What Service Means at the New Glick Boulevard Store

For a long time there has been felt a great need for an up-to-date auto service on the Boulevard. Today that need is being more than filled by the Glick Auto Supply Company's new store.

At Glick's you can get what you want (not a substitute) when you want it. The management of the store has made it a policy to serve only the approved appliances and needs for the automobile, supplanting the "something just as good" cheap substitute.

Motorists throughout the city are frequently heard to remark from one to another: "Get it at Glick's. They treated me right." That is all that is necessary. A satisfied customer can tell more about the value of a store than a volume of advertising of this kind.

Every Man to His Last

Emerson said that "Every man has born within him the ability to do easily some feat impossible to any other."

Whether or not the Sage of Concord had in mind Samuel Cohen—of Sam's Umbrella Shop—I am unable to state.

However, of this I am certain: Sam was born for his work and to his work, and considers himself divinely appointed.

In days agone, out Fifth Avenue, Sam's father made and sold umbrellas to the elite of his day, and it was under his skillful guidance that Sam learned to ply his trade.

For just thirty-three years has he lived in an "umbrella" atmosphere, and as a result he has become a master of his art.

So long as Pittsburgh remains the workshop of the world will Samuel Cohen continue to make and repair the best umbrellas for ladies and gentlemen.

Any day you pass the Pitt Theatre Building—635 Penn Ave.—you will find Sam, always busy, which is tangible evidence that he is traveling sucessfully, which is far better than to arrive.

Sunset and Evening Star

Let us pause for a moment in our work and give one thought for the inevitable hour when, as Tennyson, filled with faith and hope in the future, so sweetly puts it, "We turn again home." It is a duty one owes to oneself and family to provide a suitable resting place, so that when the hour of sunset approaches and the call comes, all anxiety relating to interment will be eliminated.

The Mausoleum Construction Co., of Pittsburgh, has erected a stately and colossal monumental Cathedral in Mt. Royal cemetery. Even in the depth of despair, on entering the sacred portals of this "Cathedral of Rest," the peacefulness and quiet are reflective, like the light of Heaven, and there is consolation in the feeling of sheltered security from inclement weather, which imparts a comfort beyond the power of words.

Yellow Cab Company

Say! You all know we had a car,
That took us near and took us far.
Unlucky? Sure! Had a wreck.
Now we have no car as you suspect.
We tried the trolley—rode the bus,
They never seemed just right for us,
So we tried these cabs all painted YELLOW,
Made, they say, for "The Thinking Fellow."
This is true as we found out,
And now their praises we can shout.
The rates are low, the service immense,
A ride in one cuts down the expense.
The drivers, say, they're surely fine,
Treat you courteous all the time.
Now, in the past if you have blundered,
Just call on COURT FIVE SEVEN HUNDRED,
You'll see the difference right away,
And ride a YELLOW CAB each day.

A Ghost, So They Say, Does Not Eat

Queer though, we simply can't, for SOME reason, keep enough CRUBRO products on our pantry shelves. SOMEONE or SOMETHING makes continual raids on the alluringly tempting jars and glasses and the first thing we know another case of CRUBRO must be ordered. And ordered AT ONCE—the family insists upon that.

CRUBRO products have that old-fashioned "summer kitchen flavor," conceded the country over to be the best. You can't get around that standard of goodness set by the magic of our pioneer grandmothers in the little log cabins of yesterday.

CRUBRO has caught the delicious essence of those early jellies and preserves that in this age is associated with rarity and expense, but which CRUBRO offers at prices that please.

Finest of fruits, cleanliness and sanitary handling mark CRUBRO manufacture.

In the Primitive Indian Language

"PO-TI-MO-GU-CO"

might have been the Spirit of some famous warrior-chieftain, hovering over the children of his tribe—safeguarding them from human and animal enemies, and protecting their wigwams from many unseen dangers.

"PO-TI-MO-GU-CO"

Is not a fable of Indian Lore, but it LIVES today. It "hovers over the children of its tribe—safeguarding them from visible as well as unseen enemies, protecting their wigwams from loss." Its "tribe" is increasing daily and more and more do the members look to their Protector to shield them from harm through the loss of their "wigwams" and the ground upon which they sit—insuring one and all the security of their homes.

You, too, may join the "tribe" of Po-ti-mo-gu-co. You, too, may live under the protection of this "spirit" and feel the same security that is felt by your "fellow tribesmen."

HUNT NEW LEADS IN CITY GRAFT PROBE

GARDNER HALTS JURY QUIZ

There will be no session of the grand jury today, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner having called a halt in the investigation of the charges of graft by city officials while he and his assistants go over the evidence already obtained through questioning several hundred witnesses.

The jury will resume its investigation Wednesday morning.

On Saturday Gardner announced that he and his assistant, Andrew T. Park, would spend a few days going over the testimony of all witnesses in search of "leads." It is expected that a number of subpenas will be ordered today and put into the hands of county detectives. The detectives will then have sufficient time to notify the witnesses to be present Wednesday.

JURORS FACING HEAVY WORK

Two panels of 120 jurors each began two weeks' work today in Criminal Court.

Presiding Judge James B. Drew sat in the assignment room today and heard excuses presented by the jurors who felt they could not serve. Three visiting judges will assist in keeping seven Criminal Court rooms occupied during the next two weeks.

Bomb Jars Exclusive Chicago

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—A terrific bomb explosion rocked Chicago's fashionable Hyde Park hotel and apartment house district early today.

A black powder bomb, believed by police to have been hurled by garage "racketeers," tore a hole in the wall of a garage and destroyed several automobiles.

Two employes in the garage escaped uninjured.

Police search was started for an alleged garage association hoodlum, threatening automobile dealers and garage men because they failed to join his association.

Proximity of a Yellow Cab Company station to the explosion caused authorities to investigate the bombing as a possible renewal of the "taxicab war."

Ask Negro Police Judge

The Rev. A. V. B. Hightower, Hill district clergyman who has been leading a crusade to clean up the Hill district, will be suggested to council as a fitting man for the position of police magistrate in the Hill district by representatives of several Hill district organizations who will meet this afternoon with council.

Attorney Wilbur C. Douglass, representing the Afro-American Brotherhood, the Third Ward Voters' League and the Metropolitan Civic League of the Fifth Ward, will present a petition to Council asking that a Negro magistrate be appointed to fill the place vacated through the "firing" of Alderman John J. Verona.

The petition also suggests the transfer of Engine Company No. 58, a Negro company, to Engine House No. 26, in the Hill district.

Flinn, Spy Nemesis, Dies

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—William James Flynn, for years the nemesis of counterfeiters, spies, anarchists and other offenders against the federal government, died yesterday after two weeks' ilness with heart disease.

From 1897 to 1918 he was a member of the Secret Service, for four years its chief. During one war year he was in charge of protecting the nation's railroads, and from 1919 to 1921 he headed the bureau of investigation of the Department of Justice.

He was born November 18, 1867, in New York. At the age of 26 he forsook the plumber's trade and became a keeper in the Ludlow Street Jail, where all Federal prisoners then were held. In 1897 he joined the Secret Service.

Within two years he was put at the head of the Pittsburgh division and a year later was moved to New York in charge of the eastern division, remaining for 11 years.

FAYETTE MAN DIES IN CRASH

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 15.—One man was killed and several injured in motor accidents in Fayette county over the week-end. Otis Swaney, 36, of Smithfield, died early today in the Uniontown Hospital from a fractured skull suffered when he was thrown from a motorcycle. The vehicle, driven by George Steve, Jr., was wrecked when it "blew" a front tire. Steve was slightly injured.

Officers are trying to locate the hit-and-run driver who struck and seriously injured Eugene Shechan, of Morrell, who is in the Connellsville Hospital with both legs and his collarbone fractured. He was walking along the new concrete highway near Wheeler when hit by a car which did not stop.

Ray M. Gause, of Scottdale, was cut and bruised when his car got beyond his control near Poplar Grove. He is in the Connellsville Hospital.

TRIO CHANGES STOLEN CARS BETWEEN JOBS

The three armed highwaymen, who for more than 10 days have been holding up pedestrians nightly, committed another series of robberies early yesterday in spite of special efforts by police and detectives to apprehend them.

Using stolen automobiles and changing them after each holdup, the youthful robbers, presumably the same three, now stand charged with more than two score crimes.

Four holdups were reported yesterday to police and two automobiles are known to have been used by the robbers.

The first were reported in Marshall avenue, near California avenue, North Side, where Joseph Schleigh, 239 Jamaica way, was robbed of $60. Margaret Donath, of 6300 Beacon street, was the next victim, being robbed of $16 and her purse near her home.

In Riverview Park, Charles McCabe and his wife were held up and robbed of $41, a watch valued at $50 and a ring, according to police. Ray Heagey, of 2123 Holyoke street, was robbed of $18 in front of his home.

WESTMORELAND SOLDIER GRAVES ARE DECORATED

Graves of Civil War veterans in Pleasant Grove Cemetery, Westmoreland county, were decorated yesterday by members of St. Clair Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution. E. M. Golden, president of the chapter; the Rev. H. H. Ryland, C. M. Haigen and the Rev. J. D. Thompson were the speakers.

Weather Conditions.

High barometeric pressure is centered off the Middle Atlantic Coast this morning, highest barometer reported, 30.32 at Philadelphia, and covers the entire country east of the Mississippi. It is clear this morning along the coast, but cloudy at most places inland. Another high overlies the Pacific Coast States, and the Rock Mountain states. The highs are separated by low pressure in the form of a trough extending from Western Ontario down over the plains states to Texas. The lowest barometer is 29.66 inches at North Platte. The low pressure area is producing showery conditions over the plains states, but the rains thus far were light. The temperature changes were slight, but generally towards warmer.

River Conditions.

The rivers are still at low stages; stage at Pittsburgh 9.7 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4; and Dam No. 6, 7.5. The dams are up.

HOSPITAL GROUP HEADED BY MRS. REA

All women's groups in the $5,000,000 appeal for the new Allegheny General Hospital will be directed by Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of Sewickley, who has just returned from Europe, it became known today. Mrs. Rea will serve as vice chairman in charge of women under the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, general chairman, in the same position occupied by H. L. Mason, Jr., with respect to men's divisions, it was announced today.

Under her will be three principal groups, numbering between 300 and 400 workers—the auxiliary committee, comprising the hospital's woman's auxiliary and junior auxiliary, under Mrs. William C. Robinson, president of the former body; North Side women, under Mrs. Walter McFarland, of Vernon avenue, North Side, and graduate nurses of the hospital, under Miss W. Emma Schiedemann, president of the nurses' alumnae association.

That Mrs. Rea has taken as a memorial one of the most outstanding phases of the new hospital also was authorized today. She has reserved the entire children's department, occupying practically a whole floor in the new building, and is making it a memorial to her mother, Edith Anne Oliver; her father, Henry W. Oliver, and her husband, Henry R. Rea. The memorial is to bear the name "Oliver-Rea."

CHURCH GIFTS $159,000 IN DAY

A total of $159,348 was pledged by members of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis yesterday in the drive to raise $185,000 for a new edifice. Pledges of $114,250 were made at the morning service. During the afternoon 34 teams of men and women canvassed the absent members of the congregation, raising $45,098.

The Rev. P. T. Amstutz of Wooster, O., representing the department of building fund campaigns of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions, is conducting the campaign, assisted by the Rev. E. D. Welsh, pastor of the church. The total cost of the new church is to be $225,000 and there was $40,000 in the building fund when the campaign started.

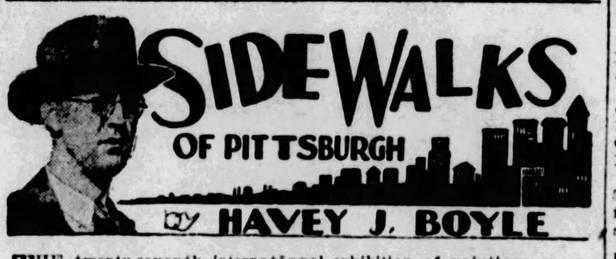
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



by HAVEY J. BOYLE

THE twenty-seventh international exhibition of paintings opens this week in Carnegie Institute. Art students of the town, and those who appreciate fine paintings, are all agog. To them this means more than a world series in baseball means to a baseball fan. The announcement of the opening serves to call attention to one of the finest assets of the town.

The paintings that tell a story or stir the imagination will appeal to the untutored who visit the exhibition. The paintings that do not represent familiar objects will cause many of us to wonder what it's all about. Only the intellectual will be able to make much of a painting that, perhaps, looks like a large guitar, but isn't a guitar at all. We looked at a photograph of a strange painting the other day, and you can imagine our embarrassment when the man who was explaining the picture to us, remarked we were holding it upside down.

WE WERE no more discouraged than when we first read of a new kind of writing by a woman celebrated by intellectuals and known as Gertrude Stein. Miss Stein writes sentences like this, roughly: "Rabbits and horses brick houses and then there were some elevators in the cabbage." That doesn't make any sense at all, but Miss Stein seemed to have a coterie of admirers by the ears with her new form of expression. Whether Miss Stein has her counterpart in some of the artists who tell stories which are just as unintelligible to most of us we can't say. We do know, however, that we have tried to be enlightened on strange looking pictures, and while the men who told us about them understood them, they had no language that meant anything to us.

But the very fact that men draw pictures that only a few understand should be enough to make us all curious to see these pictures.

ANYTIME we read that sort of poetry that doesn't convey the slightest hint of what the author is talking about—and there is quite a lot of that sort of poetry in the 50-cent magazines—we blush a little and then get buried in Emerson's essay on: Self-Reliance. That is a great tonic for men and women who have not been advantaged by education. That essay is a great tonic for people who must confess that the subtleties of art are far over their head. He makes you feel self-important in a nice kind of way.

There will be a strange mixture of spectators at the international exhibit. Learned men and unlearned men will mingle. There will be many who will get the same thrill out of a painting as other persons get out of a good play, a good book, or a fine musical composition. There will be others who will pretend to get a thrill and still others who will go and admit that they aren't touched at all.

* * *

WHAT would help make the exhibit more popular would be an explanation of the paintings in terms that the man in the street understands. If an art critic could use similie and metaphor, common to us all, in describing the paintings, there would be greater interest in the exhibit. When the art critics use the language of their profession they register with the intelligentsia, but they miss the most of us. And after all, we are in the majority and it is necessary to catch and attract us to make a thing really popular.

RIVER PILOTS STAGE RACES

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—Taking advantage of an ideal day, six river pilots staged a two-heat race on the Monongahela River between here and Rice's Landing. The steamer Edgar A. Thomson, of the Carnegie Steel Company, steamed in ahead of its two competitors, the Homestead and A. B. Sheets, after maneuvering the 12-mile course. The Clairton, another Carnegie boat, led the way for the Atha towboat, and the Vesta, steamer of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, in its heat.

Punchboard Prize Success Leads To Arrest

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—R. W. Greenely, 28, of Pittsburgh, and Irvin Wilson, 23, of Wilkinsburg, Pa., were arrested here last night after police had received complaints that Greenely was installing punchboards in business establishments and that Wilson, following him into the stores, was punching off the winning numbers.

The men admitted being acquainted, police stated, but denied any conspiracy. An investigation has been ordered.

MOTORS FAIL TO DRIVE HORSE, MULE FROM ARMY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—The horse and the mule still have their places in the Army despite the gradual motorization of the various branches.

An animal census taken by the War Department shows that there are 48,391 horses and mules in the service. Horses total 34,789 and mules 13,602. There are 11,919 draft, 22,327 riding and 498 pace horses; 10,905 draft and 2,697 pack mules. The field artillery has 10,079 animals and the cavalry has 9,850 and the National Guard has 10,198 and the remainder are distributed over other branches.

The average price paid for riding horses during the last fiscal year was $163.30. Draft horses averaged $163, draft mules $152.01 and pack and riding $137.45, while small horses used in the Philippines cost an average of $85.

VAUCLAIN WILL HELP HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Holding that the tariff is the prime issue of the current presidential campaign, Samuel M. Vauclain, of Philadelphia, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, has informed Republican National Committee headquarters here that he intends to support Herbert Hoover on November 6.

In a statement made public by the Republican committee, Mr. Vauclain is quoted as saying that both the Democratic national platform and the record gave the country reason to dread the industrial effect of tariff revision, "on the basis proposed by Democratic leadership."

RALLY PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS

Congressman John J. Boylan, of New York, will address a Democratic rally tonight at headquarters of the Braddock Smith-for-President Club, 910 Braddock avenue, Braddock. Other speakers will include David L. Lawrence, Democratic County Committee chairman; James Houlahen, former County Commissioner, and P. T. Fagan.

Attorney W. N. McNair, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, will speak tonight in the Verona Automobile Building. Other speakers will be Attorney A. L. Wolk, Miss Bessie F. McDermott, Attorney L. V. Barach and Mrs. Florence M. Shaw.

Other Democratic meetings scheduled for the week: Braddock and Cable avenues, East Pittsburgh, Tuesday, 11:45 a. m. to 1 p. m.; Wilkinsburg High School, Tuesday night; Terrace Grotto, Morrowfield Hotel, Murray avenue, Wednesday, 8 p. m., under auspices Fourteenth Ward Smith-for-President Club; Hibernian Hall, 2715 Sarah street, Sixteenth and Seventeenth Ward clubs; headquarters Twenty-ninth Ward Women's Independent Smith Club, 2049 Brownsville road, Wednesday, 2:30 p. m.

"EMPTY" GUN WOUNDS 2

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 15.—Local and Fayette county officers are making a rigid inquiry into the shooting of a man and a girl by an "empty" gun in the hands of the girl's brother.

Miss Anna Rastz, of Oliver No. 2, and Frank Mulich, of Dunbar, were peppered with buckshot and are in the Uniontown Hospital. The girl was shot in the face, the breast and the right arm, while the man was wounded in the right arm. The shooting occurred at the Mulich home. According to persons present, Stanley Rastz secured a shotgun, believed to be empty, and warned the couple, who stood in the front yard, to "look out." As they half turned the gun was discharged. Stanley also was injured by the "kick" of the gun.

TWO IN PRISON FREED BY DEATH

Two inmates of the Western Penitentiary died in the prison hospital yesterday.

Oscar Krumenaker, 56, succumbed to tuberculosis early yesterday, following 16 years' imprisonment for murder. He had been sentenced in Cambria county to serve a term of 18 to 20 years.

The other convict was James Swoger, 57, sentenced in Allegheny county November 17, 1921, to serve 12 to 14 years on a statutory charge. Sweger's death was attributed to chronic asthma.

Talks From Coast To Inquire For Friends

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 15.—His desire to know "how everybody is out back there" caused Edward Woods, well-known Uniontown man, to spend about $30 in a telephone call from Los Angeles.

He called the Uniontown Police Station and made inquiry as to how a few of his friends were getting along. The first minute of the call cost him $6, and the remaining minutes $2 each.

Woods said he had just come from the beach and that he got homesick to hear from people in Uniontown. He has been in California about six months.

GROUND CREW AT LAKEHURST NOT ADEQUATE

The United States Navy Department, long before the arrival in the United States of the "Graf Zeppelin," first trans-Atlantic air passenger vessel, made elaborate arrangements for the reception of the giant craft at Lakehurst (N. J.) naval flying field, base for the Los Angeles, somewhat smaller sister ship. Here are some of the 200 extra sailors rushed to Lakehurst to swell the ranks of the ground crew which lands the ship and help unload its effects.

ZAIN PRIZE WINNERS COMMEND AD WRITING TEST

THIRD CHANCE STILL OPEN; INEXPERIENCE NO OBSTACLE

The pleasure and profit you can get from writing advertisements for the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test, a game that The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is conducting for persons inexperienced in ad-writing, are suggested in a number of unsolicited letters that this newspaper has received. Here is one of them:

"331 South Fairmont aavenue,
"Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 12, 1928.

"Editor Zain Ad-Writing Test,
"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph:

"When you informed me that an advertisement I submitted in the Zain Test for the first period had been awarded a prize, you said you were mailing it under separate cover, and that you hoped I would like it.

"Well, 'like' is no word to use to describe my pleasure and delight when I opened the package which you sent me and found the exquisitely dainty little 'Richelieu' pearl necklace encased in the beautiful rose-velvet jewel case.

"The box alone, would be a delightful prize, and I am going to use the lower portion for any other pearls which I may happen to own and then I will call it my 'pearl box.'

"I wanted to go out and tell 'everybody' about it, but I compromised by just telling everybody I happen to know to try to write some ads for the wonderfully interes ing and more than fair Zain Ad-Test.

"I believe that a man who hadn't lost faith in the Brownies and fairies and pixies of his childhood days was certainly the kind of man who was worthy to win the first prize, and his ad was delightful to read and not easy to forget, which is 'what an ad should be.'

"I am going to keep on trying to write better ads in my spare time, but I will be satisfied even if I don't win any more prizes.

"Very respectfuly yours,
"MARY E. LACEY."

WILL TRY AGAIN

Miss Amy West Writes:

"I wish to thank you for the prize which I received yesterday. It was a pleasant surprise, and since the Ad-Writing Test has proved very interesting, I shall again try it."

S. J. Murcek, 312 Viola avenue, Duquesne, writes:

"This Ad-Test is the most novel thing I have seen encouraged by the newspapers. It is great!"

A list of 39 participating firms will be found elsewhere on this page, and also the rules for the test. They are very simple. The test is for persons inexperienced in ad-writing. Professionals and newspaper employes are barred. To be eligible for the grand prize of $1,000 in cash an ad must be written some time during the campaign about each of the 39 advertisers.

One of the products about which an ad is to be written is Amoco Gas. "There's a big difference" between Amoco and other gasoline, and you can find out what it is in no better way than by using Amoco. If you do not have an automobile call at an Amoco filling station and inquire about its points of superiority. "More miles per gallon" is one of them.

Pennsylvania is the leading state in ice cream manufacture, and Tech Ice Cream is one of the foremost Pennsylvania creams. It may interest you to know that students come from distant states to take courses in the technique of ice cream making at the Pennsylvania State College. Eat some Tech Ice Cream at a soda fountain. Take some home. It comes in many delicious flavors. Its purity and wholesomeness are unsurpassed.

The many services that are rendered by electricity in the home may well be chosen as the theme for your ad about the Duquesne Light Company. You are perhaps not aware of all the things that electricity will do for you. You have a giant at your service, instantly ready for work at any minute of the day or night, when your house is wired. Old houses can be wired at less expense than you may suppose.

Ads are to be written about the Stevenson & Foster Company, 421-427 Seventh avenue, as dealers in stationery and office supplies, and other ads about their service as printers. Call at their store and examine some of the beautiful specimens of their printing work. Their lithography and engraving on steel and copper plates are also worthy of your attention.

Ads fo. the third period must be in the office of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph not later than midnight Wednesday, October 17.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet, and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

Rules for Sun-Telegraph-Zain $15,000 Ad Test

1—$15,000 in cash and prizes distributed over seven weeks. Grand prize, $1,000. Grand weekly prize, $100. Five prizes each week for best ads written for each concern participating—195 each week, 1,170 prizes in all.

2—$1,000 for best ad submitted during entire campaign. Winners to be selected by committee of Pittsburgh advertising men and women.

3—Ads for third period must be received by midnight, October 17, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Ads arriving after that time will be automatically entered for the next period, and so on.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

5—One person may submit any number of ads. The test may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about any one or all, or any product or all, of the concerns listed. A person may win more than one prize.

6—Write only one ad on one piece of paper at least postcard size. Place name of advertiser at top, write words, phrase, poem, slogan, essay or letter. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of the envelope. SEND TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

7—Ads are to become property of advertiser to use in any manner he sees fit. No ads returned. No subscriptions necessary. No blanks to sign. No entrance fee required. No coupons to clip. All professional ad writers and newspaper employes barred.

8—In the event of a tie, the prizes will be awarded to EACH winner.

Our Daily Short Story

On With the Dance

By FLOYD FULLER

BECAUSE Maizie danced for the sheer joy of rhythm and harmonious motion, and because she could be so unmindful of the fascinated eyes upon her, the patronage at Tontoni's cabaret increased nightly. Maizie's audience fell under the enchantment of her solo interpretations to such an extent that it was itself laggard at answering the shrill call of the saxaphones, and young Tontoni would happily clap his hands and laughingly shout, "On with the dance, folks, on with the dance."

So it was that "On with the dance" grew to be a slogan belonging to Tontoni alone; Tontoni was proud that he had to rouse his patrons from their day dreams brought on by Maizie's dance. Dear little Maizie whom he himself had discovered. She had been one of his waitresses when he first started his five table restaurant; but because melody compelled her feet to pulsing time and her body to rhythmic motion, she danced about the kitchen when there were extra moments, keeping the rest of the staff happy with her own joy of life even though she had so little in worldly things to bring real happiness.

A happy staff made good business, and Tontoni enlarged his little eating house into a cabaret and then the inevitable was, that Maizie should dance. Tontoni doubled her wages, so she was able to take lessons of the most popular master of the day.

Tony was truly her very dear friend! One day in the studio, Maizie suddenly could not see, she felt herself falling, falling! The dance master gathered her up and carried her hurriedly to a doctor office at the other end of the building. By her purple lips and purple eye lids, he thought she was dead. The doctor discovered that Maizie had a leaking heart.

When Tontoni was told that Maizie should dance no more, he was as sad as she, over so tragic an ending to her short career. How could he tell her of his love now when her heart was so filled with grief and disappointment? Instead, he bestowed his love in sympathy which she accepted as friendship and started again to wait on his tables, and to watch another girl dancing in her place. It was not necessary, however, after the new girl's dance for Tontoni to shout, "On with the dance, folks, on with the dance."

Then one night Maizie's successor became ill. Maizie did not tell Tontoni, but appeared at the appointed time for the solo dance number. Tontoni was standing with his back to the entrance where Maizie appeared. He wondered at the sudden quieting of dishes and laughter. Then a cold hand gripped his heart as he felt what was about to happen. He whirled, and put up his hand as if to stop her, but the orchestra had started, and Maizie was off in a furiously wild and joyous revel.

She whirled on, and on, and on—until she dropped, a tragic little figure, in the center of the floor.

After Tontoni had tenderly carried the girl to his little office and carefully laid her on his couch, he knew that she would never dance again, he had known it when she began that last joyous whirl, but he dared not stop her. She was in her joy and in her heaven—he had no power over her ecstatic impulse.

"Oh, Maizie, Maizie, did you not know I love you?"

"Love me, Tontoni—you love me?"

"Indeed, child—and how!"

"Darling," she whispered, "it is not the dance that has broken my heart—but you—my Tontoni—my wild dream of a love that I thought could never be!"

"You will become well and strong in my care, little flower," he said as he tenderly folded her in arms which seemed thrilling and soothing as sleep stealing across a weary soul at night!

HEARST

The IMPORTANCE of LAUGHTER

YEARS ago kings kept jesters near their thrones to relieve the dull tedium of court life and lessen the heavy weight of ill-fitting crowns. Commoner people had their raree-shows—their Punch and Judys—and, with little to wear and less to eat, laughed at the dancing puppets until they forgot cold and hunger and the hard dreariness of their lives.

Nowadays there are fewer kings, and men have more to wear and eat, but laughter is no less a necessity. Care and pain and sorrow still exist, and humor is as needful as it ever was to relieve the monotony of life—to cheer the jaded mind and take the thought away from tired bodies.

Nowadays, instead of the court jester, we have the professional humorist and the artist. Instead of Punch and Judy, a hundred merry characters, full of quaint conceits and merry quips, come daily into the home—the gloom-dispelling cohorts of "The Comics." Theirs is a fine and delightful task—"Wholesale Distributors of Laughter" to millions of customers.

Originating in the Hearst Newspapers, "The Comics" are welcomed everywhere and their droll doings have become a part of the daily life of the nation. Jiggs and Maggie, Happy Hooligan, Spark Plug and Barney Google, Polly and her Pals, Tillie the Toiler, Margy, Krazy Kat, the Katzenjammer Kids, Toots and Casper, Abie Kabibble, the inimitable creations of Tad—they are as real as humans, and the part they play in keeping the world running smoothly and happily is beyond computation.

Nowhere is the sense of humor keener than in America, and, because Hearst Newspapers are American newspapers and are printed for the great American people, they invest many fortunes each year in humor—in "Comics," clever paragraphs, witty observations on life, lively jingles, jokes by the thousand. All that is brightest and best and funniest is carried into the homes of over five million families, to put sunshine into the lives of more than twenty million readers and drive dull care away.

The salaries of the Hearst staff of "Comic" artists and other humorists are royal, but these men have a royal task. They are jesters to Their Majesties, the American People!

STOLEN LOVE by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen, and beautiful, lives a secluded life with her two old maiden aunts in a run-down house. Aunt Evvie reveals to her her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death, but Joan refuses to believe anything but good of her. She falls in love with Bill Martin, a garage worker, who comes once a week to care for Aunt Evvie's car. Meanwhile, the aunts plan to send Joan away to school. Bill tells the girl that he's very poor and it may be years before he can think of marrying, but she vows she will wait for him. Joan is overjoyed when news arrives that she is to go away to school, and writes a note to Bill asking him to meet her. On her last evening, before leaving for school, Joan waits in vain for Bill to say goodby. She rushes to his home the next morning and finds he had been sent to jail, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang. Joan begs her aunts for money to bail him out and confesses the truth of her relations with him, saying they are going to be married. But Evvie gives her the chance of getting on the train that morning or going to reform school. Joan gives in and gets on the train in charge of a woman friend of her aunt's. By a ruse she slips off the train and starts to walk back 200 miles. Bill, out of jail, rushes to Joan's home, only to confront Aunt Evvie, who tells him the girl is halfway across the continent. Evvie bitterly denounces him and finally persuades him to forget Joan.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HE pulled the old cap over his eyes. "Get out of the way, can't you?" He pushed her roughly aside. The heavy front door shook the house as it slammed. He was running, hurling himself over rocks and tree trunks, crashing clumsily down the steep hill to the hollow.

"Billie, dear—don't take it so hard," his mother crooned, when she saw his white, strained face in the kitchen door. "Come, now, we've all been worryin' so, and now you're out and free, and there's nothin' left to worry about, dear—"

"Milt owes me money. Could I get a couple of dollars of it?" he interrupted hoarsely.

"Milt and Eunice and the children went to the city, but they'll be home after a while—"

He turned his pockets out. Twenty cents, a knife and some keys. "Oh well—it doesn't matter—"

"No, dear. You're going to stay right home with me today, ain't you? I'll get a real nice dinner."

He stooped and kissed her fiercely. "Poor Ma!" he said brokenly. She turned her wrinkled little face all aglow at the unexpected caress.

Then all the gladness faded. "Bill," she faltered. "You're sick. Oh, you're worrying . . and you mustn't. Everybody believes in you—they all do—"

"Oh, that. I'm not thinking about that. All over. Forgotten. But I'm going, Ma. Sorry I can't wait—take care of yourself. I'll write some time—"

He was gone. Gone without another backward look.

When she got to the window he was already out of sight.

Down at the station a long freight was pulling out. Bill didn't know where it was going. He didn't care. The brakeman signaled, the engine gathered speed.

He was 20 miles away when Joan, scarlet and breathless, rapped on his mother's door.

"I'm here! I came all the way back from Truckee!"

It was Joan's little moment of triumph. All the long miles she had been dreaming about it, the moment when she should fling open the door of Bill's little house and cry, "I'm here—I'm back—they couldn't keep me from my love!"

She flung the dusty little straw hat on a rickety chair, dropped her brown bag on the floor. "Don't cry, Mrs. Martin—oh please—I have such good news—oh don't cry so!" She was kneeling on the worn floor, her eager arms about the little gray figure in the rocking chair.

"Good news?" Bill's mother smiled through her falling tears. "You've seen Bill! He came back—"

"Oh no—not yet. But he will. Oh, I don't know where to start in! But I rode back with a man—he just knows everybody. Lawyers and all. And he said not to worry, that it wouldn't be the least tiny bit of time before Bill was out and—"

"But he did get out, dearie. He got out—and he went away. You see? He went away—"

"You mean—he was here—and he isn't here any ore?"

Mrs. Martin nodded. She pulled a crumpled han[illegible] f out of her pocket and blew her nose. "He went away again."

Joan's triumph turned to ashes. All the way back. Too late. Back in Sausalito—and Bill gone. No Bill!

"And he didn't leave any word—for me? He didn't say to tell me anything?" she pleaded.

"He didn't even say anything to me," his mother said mildly. "So of course you couldn't expect—"

"No," Joan whispered. "No—of course not——"

The kitchen clock ticked, ticked, ticked. And they sat there together, the two who loved him, without any words to say.

"I've got to go home," Joan said at last, unsteadily. "It's getting late——"

Mrs. Martin looked up at the clock. "Land! Eunice and Milt will be here!"

Joan jumped up quickly. Eunice and Milt—the man with the pasty complexion and the little shifty eyes ....she couldn't face them ....

"I must go—"

"Come soon again, dearie. You made me feel so much better, just talkin' to you. Bill will be coming back soon—he always does—you'll come soon again, won't you—"

Joan was still trying to say goodbye when Eunice and Milt and the children came home. They fairly swarmed in—Rosalie and Ruby, the twins, ahead crowding each other aside—then Milt, holding a black silk scarf to his face, and last of all Eunice, with her hat awry, and the sour, wailing baby in her arms.

"Bill's been and gone."

"What! Mama—do you mean that boy walked out of town, after all Begoni's did to get him out of jail?"

Eunice and Milt seemed to associate the news with Joan. They kept looking at her furtively.

Milt rubbed his hands. "What happened to you and the bail money, Miss Hastings? We were expecting you back—"

"I—I wasn't able to get it."

"It's a good thing he had other friends," Eunice snapped. "If he hadn't he'd have been out of luck—waiting for you. I don't want to hurt your feelings, Miss Hastings, but I must say your friendship with Bill hasn't brought him much good. He's had nothing but trouble since the day he set eyes on you!"

Joan almost ran up the hill. She wanted to get back to her own big, quiet room and bury her hot face on the cool white coverlet on the bed. She had come to the big tree where the blue jays lived before she realized. She couldn't go back. It wasn't her room any more. She had run away . . .

Back over the miles to Bill, and he gone, and no place to go . . .

The nightmare feeling came back. If only she'd wake up, and find Bill waiting . . . feel his arms around her . . . or even Aunt Evvie scolding her for something. But she knew it wasn't a nightmare. It was real. She'd never wake up . . .

"And to think—all the while I was coming back—I never once thought he might not be here!"

She kept whispering it over to herself as she crept down the hill. It seemed so funny, Joan Hastings, who always lived in the big yellow house with the hedge, couldn't ever go back any more! She couldn't go back because she was supposed to be on her way to Cousin Belle's school. She had chosen that—instead of (she shuddered as she thought it)—the Reform School—

Going off to the city, to look for a job, and not knowing anybody, not having any place to go.

"Things happen so funny—so funny—"

"I wish I could have seen the rose garden just once more," she thought, "it looked so pretty . . . that night . . . in the moonlight . . ."

Her eyes filled, but she felt happier. The rose garden made Bill seem nearer. He went away because he thought she had gone, and when he found out that she wasn't in the East, then he would come back, too . . .

"One—to San Francisco!" she said, to the man in the ticket window at the pier.

CHAPTER X.

AND now Joan was in San Francisco, all alone with $11.20 in her purse, and a clean blouse and a brush and comb and a nightgown in the small brown bag.

"Was some one to meet you, my dear?"

A pleasant faced woman with the gold badge of the travelers' aid pinned on her coat had come to her side, her brown-gloved hand was closing on the little bag. "Come—we'll go over to my office, and it will be so much more comfortable waiting there."

"No—no, thank you. I'm waiting for some one myself!" Fear steadier her now. Her mind cleared. She must get away quickly, before this woman found out who she was. Mrs. Marden must have wired back by this time. Get away, somehow, quick.

She was looking around pretending to be searching for some one. "I don't see my friend. I think I'll go on home!" Her wandering eye rested on a telephone booth in the station. "If you'll excuse me—I want to phone."

STARTLED? Perhaps she is—at least, she looks as though she is. Wonder why? Well, if you don't tell a soul, I'll tell you. Listen—it's because she has heard the tiny little whispers of love that she looks so startled. It was the very last thing in the world she dreamed of, and now—well, she doesn't know what to do!

But she shouldn't be startled, for Love always comes suddenly. Occasionally you get the tiniest little warning of it, but that shouldn't scare you half to death! There's nothing to be afraid of when Love comes to you. So when you hear the tiny whispers of Love that no other ear can hear—just be glad, for you'll know then that happiness has come your way at last.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Princess Olina Receives Proof of Duplicity

AT my father's dictum, Lillian, Allen Drake and I rose at once from our chairs, realizing that no time was to be lost in doing the things which the letter sent from the mysterious "K. seven" had suggested.

"I'll wire to Dicky, Madge," Lillian said, "for you're the only one to deal with Princess Olina. You'll have to put all your cards on the table. Incidentally I suppose we'd better give the once over to this letter which 'K. seven' has sent for Olina's enlightenment, before Madge takes it with her."

She opened the letter as she spoke, glanced over it quickly and handed it to my father.

"No sense reading it aloud," she said. "It's short, and evidently in Transvanian. 'K. seven' has appended a translation for our benefit."

When it finally came to my hands, I read the translated phrases attentively. It should be potent I thought to quiet Olina's doubts of the sinister nature of the "message" she carried.

"See to it that you do not lose this token I'm sending you, as you did the first one," the supposed friend of Olina had written, "for the time is short and anything might happen. Suppose the little fool died—where would you be then—with officials in charge of her body? Remember the negotiations for ransoming her will have to be conducted very adroitly. Never must any clue point even remotely toward me. I've done my part in getting her within your reach, and I shall know how much money is sent, so do not attempt to play me false. Remember, she thinks the message is about the jewels."

Lillian went with me to my room while I made ready for my trip to The Larches, and spoke crisply.

"When I get hold of Dicky—on second thought I'm going to phone him instead of wiring—I'll come on down to The Larches. It's going to take some hustling to get that establishment broken up and the girl over here. Also, I'm going to ask your father's advice about letting Phil in on this. He's safe as a graveyard, and we may need him or his car or his coin. Good hunting, Girl!"

But I was anything but cheered as I journeyed to The Larches. I expected a hard task in convincing Princess Olina of the truth, but I was relievedly surprised, when after I had finished my story and given her the letter which the red-bearded man had sent her, she stood up with calm face and steady eyes.

"I do not need the letter," she said. "I see it all now. In my folly and credulity I nearly have done my country and yours a great wrong."

"Better read the letter anyway," I said, and she took the paper from me. Her lips tightened as she scanned the words, but she handed it back to me with no word of comment, although I knew that she had been sorely stricken by the treachery revealed therein. I mentally saluted her courage. She was every inch a princess in this trying moment, at least.

She was regal also in her prompt handling of the emergency with which she was confronted. Her aunt had regained consciousness during the night and her condition was decidedly improved. Fortunately for our scheme, the physician in charge already had said he would like to have her removed to the hospital, and Princess Olina, turning us all out, talked to her supposed aunt and uncle alone, coming out a few minutes later with their consent to the plan made for them. I guessed that they would have obeyed her as readily if she had asked them to go to certain death for her.

The next few hours were hectic ones. Lillian came over, bringing Katherine, for we had no more fear of Junior, now that his grandfather was at home, and we all worked to such purpose that long before dark Anna had been taken to the hospital, her husband and the princess accompanying in the ambulance, while Philip Veritzen's limousine followed with the famous producer himself in attendance, that he might bring the girl back.

After she had gone we packed Olina's belongings and directed Mrs. Ticer in the temporay closing of The Larches. When Mr. Veritzen's limousine appeared at the door and the girl came up the steps everything was in readiness for her departure, and we drove swiftly to the farmhouse.

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

When Baby Reaches the "Chewing" Age

ONE of the first lessons to teach a child is the importance of chewing the food. We must begin with this teaching just as soon as the youngster is old enough to take "chewable" food. Usually at the age of 1 year the baby is strong enough to chew on a crust of buttered bread, or on a chicken bone. Pretty soon it will be taking small quantities of meat and plenty of vegetables. Let it be understood that these must be thoroughly chewed.

DR. COPELAND

Bolting the food is bad for young and old. It is too much the habit of many Americans, old as well as young. In a sense we are a nation of dyspeptics. This is a state of affairs founded on hasty eating and failure to prepare the food for digestion.

Of course, such foods as I have in mind must be prepared for the child under 12 months of age. It requires the aid of the mother. The meats, if they are given, should be scraped, or else cut into very fine pieces.

At this tender age, too, the vegetables should be well cooked and then strained through a sieve, rubbed through it, I should say. It isn't a bad idea to strain the cereals, so to get rid of fiber and chaff. But when the first birthday has arrived, the normal child will begin to use his jaws for chewing purposes. The gums and teeth, as well as the chewing muscles, will be aided in their development by this practice. From this time on there should be variety in the foods given at each meal. It is unwise, and improper, indeed, to permit the child to make an entire meal of one single food. The given food may be desirable from every standpoint, but, even so, that should not lead you to disregard the importance of variety.

You see, every food possesses certain chemical and physical qualities. But your child cannot grow and develop normally unless all the required elements get into his system. By feeding a variety of things the youngster will wax strong and sturdy.

Careful training from these early days of the young life will cause the formation of good habits. These habits will last all through its career. Many a healthy man or woman of today can look back in gratitude to a mother who insisted on proper habits of eating.

A healthy and correctly fed child will go to the table with an appetite. It goes to the table to eat. You should not permit it to play with the food. Let it be understood that during that period eating is the main and practically the only business.

But, be careful! Do not permit hasty eating or the bolting of the food, which I have already told you is so bad for this young citizen.

I beg of you to take the greatest of pains to drill into this young mind the importance of good table manners and the proper manner of eating the proper foods.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, October 16

THE stellar operations for this day testify to many conflicting situations. Those in the employment of others are under safe auspices and should be favored, but others are in danger of disruption and dangers, physical and otherwise, unless they use calm and well-governed conduct to protect themselves and their interests. The personal, domestic or affectionate contacts hint of pleasant and romantic situations and culminations.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year of conflicting conditions with upheavals and disintegrations, possibly accidents, unless every precaution be taken to safeguard the interests and the person. Personal affiliations may prove gratifying and romantic. Employment is auspicious.

A child born on this day may have many social graces andd accomplishments and may be popular in spite of an irascible and high strung temperament. It should be well disciplined in infancy.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN by HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT EVERY WOMAN THINKS

WHEN a girl says she doesn't want to marry, she means that she doesn't EXPECT to marry. When a man says that he doesn't expect to marry, he means that he doesn't WANT to marry—and defies any woman to make him.

There are times when even the best of husbands secretly envies the lifeguard, who has the privilege of hitting a woman over the head in order to make her manageable.

No man can understand why a woman will go to a lawyer or a doctor and PAY for advice, when he is pining to give her such a lot of it perfectly free, if she will only LISTEN to it.

You can always tell by the expression on the face of the man in the telephone booth whether he is trying to "convince" his wife or just trying to "explain" to his sweetheart.

"Paternal obligation," to most men, consists in reading the "funnies" to the children, taking Bobby to the circus, and showing Willie how to wind up his Christmas toys.

It used to be an insult to a woman's dignity to have a man stare at her legs—now, it's an insult to her vanity if he doesn't.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A PRETTY FROCK FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Delightfully cool and youthful is this pleasing model. It may be developed with or without the wrist length sleeves and the collar. The bloused waist is mounted on an underbody which may be of lining. The right front is crossed over the left front in the popular diagonal closing. The skirt shows gathered fulness over the center. Dotted silk in blue and white or red and white with pipings in a matched shade of crepe de chine is here pictured. This style is also good for printed georgette, chiffon or voile. Canton crepe or satin may also be used.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. A 16-year size will require 1⅝ yards of 32-inch lining and 4 yards of 35-inch material if made as illustrated in the large view. To face girdle with contrasting material will require ¾ yard 35 inches wide. To make the dress with long sleeves and without collar will require 3⅞ yards of 35-inch material. To finish with bias binding requires 2¼ yards. The width of the dress at the lower edge is 1⅝ yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE reason many young people become discouraged and consider themselves failures is because they want to begin at the top.

They forget that nearly all successful careers had humble beginnings.

The seed of success is a willingness to work. The willingness to begin in no matter how humble a capacity, so long as you are on the path that leads to the goal you aim for.

Opera singers have started in cabarets. Authors have started as reporters on small papers. Playwrights have started as humble free lance writers. Painters have puttered at signs and cheap commercial art. Stars started as members of the mob.

The surest and safest way to success is by the progress that comes slowly step by step!

BEST IN PITTSBURGH — MONDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1928 — TWENTY-ONE

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Duquesne Now Prominently on Football Map —Eventually to Play Pitt and Carnegie Tech—Panthers Show Some Encouraging Points Despite Defeat at West Virginia's Hands—Hockey Opening Advanced.

INSTEAD of having only two teams in major college football, Father Pitt now is the proud possessor of three. Duquesne University has arrived.

STAN BERKMAN

An eleven that is good enough to defeat an opponent of the lofty standing and nation-wide reputation of W. & J. is not to be high-hatted in the most exclusive gridiron circles, and by virtue of its sensational 12-to-6 victory over the Presidents, the latter's first defeat on their home grounds in seven years, the Bluff school must be awarded a place among the pigskin elite of this region.

THOUGH it had been clear prior to last Saturday's game that Coach Elmer Layden was making great progress in raising Duquesne's football standard, the heights to which the Dukes rose in conquering such a big-time foe as Wash-Jeff, and without using a freshman player at that, surprised even their most optimistic followers, and contributed to the season's records what will stand as one of the greatest achievments by a so-called minor team in 1928.

It was no fluke, but a clean-cut and well-earned victory that Ganzy Benedict and his mates placed to their credit through their clever execution of the Notre Dame aerial system in Duquesne's first game against a major team in 26 years. It puts the Bluff university on the football map more prominently than ever before, and may be counted as only the first evidence of a gridiron advance that will sooner or later earn for the Dukes a place on the schedules of both Pitt and Carnegie Tech.

CARNEGIE TECH'S attack lived up to its advance promises in amassing 45 points against Thiel, and that end of the score was only about what had been anticipated, but in making 13 points through crossing the Tartan goal line twice, Tommy Holleran's Greenville lads gave the game a feature that was rather out of line with expectations.

And the Thiel team's feat must be credited to its own strength rather than to any glaring defensive weakness on the part of the Plaid. In Stan Berkman, Thiel has an exceptional back who looks good enough for any man's team, and with Mike Mitchell and others to aid Berkman, Coach Holleran is able to present a lineup this fall that is the best the Greenville college has known for years. The game between the Dukes and Thiel here on November 17—which may be played at the Stadium, as Pitt will be absent for the Nebraska tilt in Lincoln—ought to be a hummer.

A LOSING team, especially one that loses a game it was generally figured to win, invariably receives less credit than it deserves. This is true of Pitt, in view of its 9-to-6 defeat by West Virginia in the first major game of the season here. There were many encouraging features in the play of the Panthers in this game, though they did appear to lack "inspiration" and were pretty well worn out toward the close. For instance, in tackling, covering punts, and general defensive play, with the exception of defense against passes, Pitt showed plenty of ability. Never since Dr. Sutherland started coaching, either at Lafayette or Pitt, has he had a team that couldn't tackle, and the 1928 Panthers are no exception. Men who see many big games elsewhere and who occasionally view the Pitt eleven, declare that nowhere is there a team that, season in and out, maintains as high a standard in this regard. And for some seasons past it has been a rare thing to see an opposing quarterback given a ghost of a show to run back Pitt's punts. Always there are two or three husky Panthers waiting for him, and they see that his return is held to a minimum.

GANZY BENEDICT

ONE OF the linemen whose play stood out, in this and other respects, against the Mountaineers, was big Mike Getto, who is coming into his own as a sterling tackle. It is Mike's misfortune that, like the brilliant "Tiny" Linn a couple of years ago, he has attained his full football stature only in his closing season.

He is now a bulwark of strength against opposing attacks, shows surprising ability to cover ground, and keeps his head up at all times.

The general play of the Pitt line was good. Perhaps the outstanding man, other than Getto, was Joe Donchess, the always reliable end, one of the smartest and most consistent players developed at Pitt in many years.

ANOTHER commendable feature of the Panthers' play was the improved and well-rounded work of Charley Edwards, who picked his plays well, mixed them up excellently, and carried a tremendous load with credit.

Few realize the heavy responsibility resting on this lad, who must not only choose plays and call signals, but lead interference, "dumping" the leading defense man of the opposition, no matter who among Charley's mates carries the ball. And, too, he does most of the forward passing, and attends to the punting and dropkicks.

And against West Virginia he did all these things well. His passing was notably better than the work of the receivers, even the usually sure-handed Guarino dropping passes that should have resulted in long gains. He is a superior passer to Rooney or Williams, judged by his work in the games to date.

SHARING honors with Charley in the Pitt backfield were Tom Parkinson, one of the most stalwart and durable players and one of the surest ground-gainers in the district, and the versatile Toby Uansa, who again demonstrated his right to a place in the starting lineup. Many spectators commented on the high-grade defensive work of Edwards, Parkinson and Uansa, especially Parkinson's vigorous tackling and Edwards' brilliant achievement in heading off Bartrug when the fleet Mountaineer, after intercepting Charley's pass, got off with a clear field and four interferers. How Edwards ever managed to head him in and permit other flying Panthers to down the West Virginian on the four-yard line is a mystery. Other plays worthy of remembrance came out in the exciting game. Both teams showed a sterling goal-line defense, Pitt twice and the visitors once. Regular attendants at the Stadium will agree that in no season do many teams buck it across on Pitt. Most visitors' touchdowns come as the result of one or two long plays.

WEST VIRGINIA'S biggest assets, recognizing the fact that the team showed no coherent attack and never, until

BOUTS CARDED TONIGHT

Phil Goldstein vs. Johnny Mellow and Rudy Ceder vs. Tony LaRose, 10 rounds each; Tug Phillips vs. Jimmy Belmont, 6 rounds, and Dominick Profio vs. Tiger Joe Randall and Mike Smithammer vs. Jack McCarthy, 4 rounds each, Motor Square Garden.

Mickey Hart vs. Howard Mayberry, 10 rounds, and Battling Gizzy vs. Jack O'Bayon; Harry Spencer vs. Pete Kuzma and Chuck Semach vs. Frank Monroe, 6 rounds each, Washington, Pa.

Harry Taylor vs. Young Rudy, 10 rounds, and Ray Braun vs. Cliff Stufft, Joe Todd vs. Young Guido and Young Kane vs. Kenny Davis, 6 rounds each, Johnstown.

Paris Cangey vs. Freddie Fitzgerald, 10 rounds; Chester Smallwood vs. Frankie Moran and Nick Martin vs. Harry Miller, 6 rounds each, and Elmo the Mighty vs. Ernie Page and Larry Mutter vs. Tony Martin, 4 rounds, Jolly Bowl, New Castle.

Johnny Michaels vs. Patsy Buffalo, 10 rounds, Louisville, Ky.

George Courtney vs. Wilson Yarbo, Ray Miller vs. Lope Tonorio and Marco Polo vs. George Hoffman, 10 rounds each, New York; Frankie Genaro vs. Frenchy Belanger, 10 rounds, Toronto.

Dave Shade vs. Cowboy Jack Willis, 10 rounds, Chicago.

"ACTION NIGHT" is scheduled for this evening at Motor Square Garden, when the second boxing show of the season in that arena will be held. A double windup of two eight-round bouts and a six-round battle and two four-round preliminaries are booked and the principals have been matched in a manner that promises plenty of fireworks.

Phil Goldstein, the latest of the Jewish lightweight favorites of the Hill district, returns to competition before his home folks against Johnny Mellow, of Detroit, in the 10-round main event. He has not boxed at Motor Square Garden in months, but has been keeping busy in rings around New York, and that he is a favorite with the fans is indicated by the briskness of the advance sale of tickets. Mellow recently halted the winning streak of Terry Lingo in a bout at McKeesport and is well remembered here for his battles with Cuddy DeMarco, Dick Conlon, California Joe Gans and Freddie Boylstein, besides whom he has boxed Phil McGraw, Babe Herman, Eddie (Kid) Wagner and others of note.

In the other eight-round bout, Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, meets Tony LaRose, of Cincinnati, who decisively defeated Bobby Richardson in the semi-final of the opening show here. Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, meet in the six-round event and Tiger Joe Randall, of Elizabeth, mixes with Dominick Profio, of Cecil, and Mike Smithhammer, of Pleasant Valley, battles Jack McCarthy, of Pittsburgh, in the four-round events.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30. The boxers will weigh in at 3 p. m. in the Motor Square gym.

BUSY BOXING NIGHT

Mitt shows also are listed for tonight at Washington, Pa.; New Castle and Johnstown. Mickey Hart and Howard Mayberry box the windup at Washington, Paris Cangey and Freddie Fitzgerald at New Castle and Harry Taylor and Young Rudy at Johnstown.

Baby Joe Gans decisively defeated Billy White, of Jersey City, in a 10-round bout in New York Saturday night.

Pittsburgh and Cleveland amateur boxers divided honors in the first of the series of intercity shows at the Y. M. A. Saturday night, each city winning four bouts.

Bobby Young, of Duquesne, who has been making his boxing headquarters in Detroit for a couple of seasons, fighting regularly there and in Flint, Pontiac, Toledo, Milwaukee and other cities, is anxious to return here against any of our leading junior-lightweights. He issues challenges to Young Rudy, Terry Lingo, Frankie Gordini, Maxie Strub, Johnny Datto or anybody else up to 135 pounds.

Here we have Miss Helen Jacobs holding court off the courts, a queenly figure none the less for the lack of a tennis racquet in her hands. Despite her youth she figures she already has played 3,600 hours at the game. Roughly speaking, or placed end to end, those hours represent 150 days or five months of continuous activity. One should learn quite a few things about tennis over such a stretch.

Buc Six Lifts Lid Nov. 15

By CARL W. SHATTO.

PITTSBURGH no longer is the pampered child of the National Hockey League. In seasons past the Pirates, one of the circuit's "weak sisters" in the matter of attracting home fans, were awarded every possible Saturday home date in an effort to build up attendance, but the schedule for the 1928-29 campaign, announced today, shows that the Pirates this year will be at home only one more Saturday than they are abroad.

As in the past, the Pirates will meet their rivals in the American Group more often than they do the clubs making up the Canadian Group. Of 44 games on their program, 24 will be with Boston, Detroit, Chicago and the New York Rangers of the American Section.

The new race will get under way on Thursday, November 15, and the Pirates will pry off the lid at home, meeting the Boston Bruins on Duquesne Garden ice. The campaign is to close on March 16.

Pittsburgh's home games will be played on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Two changes have been made in the league rules. In the play-offs between the two groups at the end of the season, the leaders in each group will clash, with the second and third teams meeting the corresponding teams in the other group.

The other change is that an extra period of 10 minutes will be played to decide a tie. Formerly the team scoring the first overtime goal won.

CHILLY SAUCE BY CHILLY DOYLE

LOOKOUT for another sensational season of fielding on the part of Pie Traynor if Earl Sheely wins the firstbase berth of the Pirate team next year. Since Sheely was drafted by the Buccos several major leaguers have stated that Earl ranks with the greatest in the game as a defensive gateway tender.

THE Paso Robles native is almost as tall as George Kelly and apparently he is just as efficient around the bag as "Highpockets." Traynor made more wild throws to first base this summer than he was accustomed to making, but it is believed that the sometimes unsteady condition noted at the opposite position was partly responsible for the wild flings of the hot corner guardian.

PAUL WANER did not offer it as an alibi, but the de luxe hitter of the Pittsburgh team thinks his batting slump was encouraged by the trick he worked at first. Paul had some sensible observations to offer in this connection.

"I feel that I would not suffer in my batting if I played the bag regularly," said Paul in discussing the question with this writer at the close of the season. "Changing from the outfield to the infield is apt to bother a fellow at the plate," continued the rightfielder. "When one plays the outfield he confines his throwing to the customary flings required by a player in the pasture, but when you go to the infield you immediately change your style of throwing the ball."

"THE shots from the outfield are generally of the long overhand variety. As soon as you move to first base you naturally swing into the underhand method of snapping the sphere to the other basemen. When you do this for a whole day you experience a muscular reaction in the arms and shoulders that has a tendency to tie up your swing at the plate. I found it hard to get any rhythm into my swing after moving into first base. I really believe that my batting slump at the end of the season was partly induced by the change of playing conditions. However, the move was made for the best interest of the club and I was glad to switch to help out in the general scheme."

And what, you say, is to become of Boots Grantham if Sheely is awarded the first-base job? There is a problem and one that seems hard to solve. In some respects Grantham is the equal of Lou Gehrig who unquestionably is the best all-round first-baseman in the game. You might go a bit further and state that Lou is the second best diamond performer in the land. The Bambino has an edge on Geh-

PANTHERS TO PLAY AT W. VA. IN '30

By JESS CARVER.

LOOK back in the book, will you, and see how often it has occured that at this time of the year, only three of the dozen and a half college and university football teams in this section remained undefeated and untied. And, peering further, discover if you can find the name of the Dukes of Duquesne among the elite.

Saturday was a glorious day in football. The mighty fell and the meek inherited the high places. Today, Blue Monday, finds Carnegie Tech, Davis-Elkins and Duquesne the lone unbeaten clubs in the sector and Grove City and St. Francis unbeaten, but tied. But think of the Dukes. You'll have a tough time forgetting them from now on. Instead of the Big Four, it's the Big Five now.

Duquesne's rousing victory over Wash-Jeff, scored by no fluke, but on smart, heady football, backed by a sterling defense, overshadowed the setback suffered by Pitt at the hands of West Virginia. The Dukes deserved their triumph as much as Pitt deserved to lose a game they had in the bag. Forgetting that they were not supposed to play football on a par with the Presidents, Elmer Layden's inspired warriors carried the fight right to the Prexy by pulling the old trick of having a man lay out and then tossing him a pass. They continued to outpass the Presidents, just as West Virginia outpassed Pitt. Pitt never looked worse against the forward pass than they did Saturday. The Dukes never looked better.

Pitt lost to West Virginia because Pitt couldn't defend itself against the West Virginia air attack and because Charley Edwards threw a long forward pass that was not protected. It was intercepted and run back to the six yard line, from which spot a touchdown was scored on a forward pass. The Panthers showed fine line play and Tom Parkinson and Toby Uansa carried the ball well, but Josh Williams only got away once and his interference was not up to snuff.

In addition, the Pitt punting was bad, West Virginia gaining consistently on the exchange of kicks.

TECH NEEDS POLISHING

While all this was going on, Carnegie Tech was meeting its final warm-up foe in the doughty Thiel eleven, and while they won the ball game, they also showed that they need more work against the forward pass. Thiel scored twice on the Tartans, Stan Berkman heaving two long tosses for touchdowns. And Tech was watching for Mr. Berkman, too.

It was a tough day for the old Warner system. Pitt, using that style of football, lost out to the Speers-Rodgers game. The Notre Dame system won over Pop's ground work at Wash-Jeff and Tech kicked Warnerism as represented by Thiel.

Geneva stepped to the fore in the Tri-State Conference by beating Frank Wolf's Waynesburg eleven at Waynesburg. Geneva has been roosting at the top of the Conference in football ever since the circuit was formed. It is no strange sight to see them back there again.

Grove City, tied in the opening game a week ago by St. Francis, came back and defeated Ralph Vince's John Carroll U. gridders of Cleveland at Grove City. This victory indicated that Charley Berry has aroused the power that lies in the best balanced squad in the section.

Westminster lost its third game in a row, bowing to St. Francis, at Greensburg. Allegheny and Tech also hold triumphs over the United Presbyterians. Allegheny made a game stand against Dartmouth at Hanover, but met defeat. The Methodists showed some power, however, and will very likely trouble Pitt here next Saturday.

PENN STATE BEATEN

Bucknell, under the fine tutelage of Carl Snavley and Ulhardt Hangartner, repeated its 1927 triumph over Penn State, setting the Lions down, 6 to 0. Davis-Elkins remained in the unbeaten class by smacking down the Bluefield College warriors, 76 to 6. West Virginia Wesleyan found Concord State a tougher nut to crack than was SCENE: Sports Department. TIME: Saturday night. CAST: Caller on telephone and hard-working inmate trying to edit reams of football copy and answer 'phone at the same time. Inmate has that Foolish Look on his phiz, indicating exercise of great restraint of emotions.

VOICE ON 'PHONE: Who won the Pitt game?

ANSWER: West Virginia, 9 to 6.

VOICE: Is that so? Are you sure?

ANSWER: Grr-rrr!

VOICE: And the Tech game. Who won it?

ANSWER: Tech, 45 to 13.

VOICE: What did Thiel score 13 points?

ANSWER: Grr-rrr Grr-rrr!

VOICE: What's the Dukes' score?

ANSWER: Dukes won, 12 to 6.

VOICE: Wh-at? The Dukes beat W. & J.? (Business of fainting and falling off chair with dull, sickening thud.)

ANSWER: Aaah-revenge at last!

Morning-after Thought at Little Washington: "Who trun that brick?"

Wash-Jeff can't say it didn't know the Dukes' gun was loaded. Pent-up fury, like murder, will out.

ALL THOSE DUKES NEEDED WAS A CHANCE TO CROWN SOMEBODY. AND THE PRESIDENTS WERE ELECTED.

Pitt and Wash-Jeff are brothers under the skin once more. Each knows exactly how the other feels.

CITY IS GOING TO GET AN INJUNCTION TO KEEP STANLEY BERKMAN OUT OF TOWN.

He's a forward-passing pest. Had Pitt going in the Stadium a few weeks ago and scored twice on Tech at Forbes Field Saturday. Now he's coming back to play the Dukes.

Started out as a freshman at Pitt, but went to Thiel to get a reputation. Now he makes Pittsburgh his home grounds.

Notre Dame and Navy divided one touchdown between them before a crowd of 122,000 at Chicago. That's boosting the price of scoring.

ADD TALES THAT ARE HARD TO BELIEVE: Phillies give Heine Sand and $50,000 to Cardinals for Tommy Thevenow.

THERE'S MANY A PASS BETWEEN VICTORY AND DEFEAT, AS BOTH PITT AND W. & J. CAN ATTEST AFTER SATURDAY'S NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

Pity poor Jack Dempsey, who is afraid he'll be an unemployed millionaire in another year.

What's the use of being an employed millionaire?

Given your choice, which would you rather be, an unemployed millionaire, or an employed pauper? So would I.

THAT SOB OF SYMPATHY YOU HEAR IS HARVARD COMMISERATING WITH PRINCETON OVER THE TIGERS' SCORELESS TIE WITH VIRGINIA.

Doesn't take long to acquire a habit. Michigan proved this by taking another one on the whiskers Saturday, this time from Indiana.

The old-fashioned game of "Button, button, who's got the button?" never had anything on Pitt's new pastime of trying to see how close it can come to making a safety and not get caught. It worked twice Saturday, but the third time was once too often.

Pete Bowen got out safely twice after being trapped behind his own goal. Disgusted with Pete's failure to give the crowd a look at a real safety, the Pitt center then tossed one over Jim Rooney's head into the end zone. There was no running that one out.

Times haven't changed much. Already absent-minded fans are writing in to inquire how many games were played in the 1928 series and who got the home runs and how many games did Alexander win.

THESE WILL BE ANSWERED IN DUE SEASON, OR AS SOON AS THE RUBBER STAMP REPLIES ARRIVE.

Our choice for the all-America baseball team of the past season—Ruth, Gehring and seven other guys.

They're tossing a banquet for Will McKechnie at Wilkinsburg tomorrow night. What would they do for him if he had won?

Port Vue In 0-0 Tie

By TOM BIRKS.

FOUR of the outstanding teams of the district said good-bye to their chances in the titular race for the independent gridiron championship when the Bridgeville Firemen defeated Lawrenceville Mohawks, 9 to 0, East Pittsburgh stopped Springdale Amicus, 6-0, McKeesport Olympics swamped Linwood 25 to 0, and Carrick defeated Greenfield by a 19-to-12 score yesterday. The big game found McChesneytown fighting Port Vue to a scoreless tie at Romaine grounds. So four undefeated contenders bit the dust.

Burns, 1928 champ, scored a 31-to-6 victory over the Pleasant Valley Smilers; J. J. Boyles defeated Esplen, 24 to 0; East End championship found the Eighth Ward Traders on the long end of a 12-to-6 score over their old foes, East Liberty Paulsons; Oakmont had an auspicious opening in their local derby with Tarentum, winning 7 to 0; Glassport Odds invaded Millvale and spoiled any championship notions the Amici had by winning, 13 to 0; West View's big machine scored three touchdowns against the lighter Blaw-Nox team, 20 to 6, and Woodlawn rolled up the big score of the day in stopping the Montour gridders, 56 to 0.

The day was great for sandlot football and most of the games were played to capacity crowds. Now that the leading clubs are opening up and getting together, it is only natural for interest to grow until Turkey day. Andy Cutler was in the Greenfield lineup together with Anderson. Restizelli was the means of Oakmont's win, his touchdown coming at a crucial moment.

With 7,000 enthusiastic fans wedged in at Romaine Field, the Port Vue Quakers and McChesneytown gridiron machines battled to a scoreless tie in the greatest independent football game of the season. It was a wonderful fight, and the only near score of the game came in the dying moments when Olack, trying for a field goal from the 45-yard line, made McChesneytown's horde of rooters hold their breath. The ball missed the bar by inches.

The followers of the Great Red machine from Latrobe had many anxious moments, due to the battering-ram methods of Kalitz, Brownsville star, who, at times, tore the Kennedy line to shreds. It is McChesneytown's proud boast that only three touchdowns have been scored through that line in three years, but Kalitz did some great plunging, especially in the first and last quarters.

TEAMS PARRY

When the game started Kalitz's steam-roller methods began without delay. Three first downs straight through the McChesneytown line made the Latrobe boys wonder what it was all about. Then big Bill Johnson stepped into the picture by taking a Port Vue pass out of the air and the Big Red machine got going. It was mostly McChesneytown until the half finished, but it was anything but McChesneytown in the second half. A couple of fumbles were costly, and with the ball, Port Vue ran off three more first downs, Johnson kicked twice to relieve the pressure, and with the ball on the McChesneytown 46-yard line, Gulasky tried a placement kick, but the ball fell short.

Then with only four minutes to go, Olack tried his 45-yard kick for the three points and the game. The ball sped past the post by a few inches and the game was over. It was a great battle. McChesneytown's backfield did not get started, as usual, possibly because of the Port Vue line. Contrella was great, W. Johnson's work looked good for McChesneytown. The lineup:

Pity Poor Jack Dempsey; Says He'll Be Millionaire Out of Work in a Year

(Editor's Note: This is the first of three human interest stories based on an interview with Jack Dempsey.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Jack Dempsey revealed in an exclusive interview that he expects to be at the "cross roads" of his glamorous career in just about a year. He will have $1,000,000 or more, but no job, and he recoils at the idea of being an unemployed millionaire.

He will be 34 years old in another year, perhaps an actor no longer and he will be through forever with the ring. He will be seriously asking himself the question:

"What will I do?"

He will have wealth, robust health, fame no doubt, friends galore and a loyal and talented wife, but he will be like a fish out of water. Money isn't everything with Jack. He will be eager and restless to do something worthwhile, but, as he rather plaintively explained, he will find himself untrained for business and unfitted for a professional career.

TO MAKE NEW START

"I will be starting all over again, a graduate of the college of hard knocks, and ambitious to succeed in some worthwhile line of endeavor," said the former heavyweight champion of the world. "What I will do I frankly don't know, but I'm giving it plenty of thought. I'm going to try hard and I think I'll make good."

Dempsey figures he has just about a year to go as an actor. Part of that time in the play in which he is starring on Broadway and the rest making a "talkie" or two. Producers are after both Dempsey and his wife, the dark-eyed, attractive Estelle Taylor, to do a talking motion picture or two. After that, Dempsey wonders—what?

The affable and unassuming former champion not only frankly discussed his uncertain future, but chatted entertainingly about his past. Among other things he said:

1. That Tex Rickard is the "outstanding personality" he has ever met.

2. That the "biggest thrill" of his sensational career to him was when he knocked out Jess Willard at Toledo on July 4, 1919, and won the championship.

3. That big, hairy-chested Luis Firpo, of the Argentine, came nearer to knocking him out than any other man.

4. That he likes the public.

5. That he feels perfectly at home with prize-fighters, actors and newspapermen.

6. That exercise is his hobby.

7. That football is his favorite sport.

NOT A BAD ACTOR

The writer met Dempsey in front of the Savoy Plaza Hotel as he was hailing a taxi. "Hop in," said Jack, and after parking his feet on the seat ahead, said, "Shoot!"

"How do you like being an actor?" he was asked.

"I rather like it—it isn't bad. I'm in there trying."

"The critics say you're good."

"Not all of them," smiled Jack.

"Are you going to make acting your life vocation—planning to be a second James J. Corbett?"

"No, I'm afraid I'll never be as good an actor as Jim Corbett," replied Dempsey. "Still I don't think I'm hopeless or anything like that. And I'm learning. Some parts of my show I play very natural. I feel at home chatting in the Times Square barber shop in the first act and I'm really myself when I strip to tights and climb through the ropes in the last act. But in Act II, they make me sit there like a dumbbell and listen to my manager and a gambler talk about me throwing a fight. It wouldn't be natural for me to sit there so dumb. I'd get the idea quicker. And, instead of doing what I do in the show, I'd get up and sock somebody on the button. When I act I like to act natural. I've just got to be myself, even on the stage."

It was at this juncture that Dempsey said he believed he had about a year to go as an actor and that he then would be at the crossroads of his careeer.

(Tomorrow Dempsey lists the five best heavyweights in the ring today and tells of the three greatest personalities he has met in his spectacular career.)

Pitcher Dawson Of Bucs Gets Air License

UPSETS MARK DISTRICT GRID GAMES

expected, but won, 18 to 0. Bethany had an idle day.

The edge has been taken off at least two games listed for this week. If you don't think the defeat of Wash-Jeff is going to hurt the crowd at the Tech-W. & J. game, you're goofy. The Stadium will be as far from filled as the Pitt and Allegheny battle. Tech, a pre-season favorite to beat the Red and Black will be almost a prohibitive one by game-time Saturday, and Allegheny, reckoned as a dangerous foe prior to the games of last week, has a fine chance to upset the Panthers. I imagine there will be some hectic forward passing drill at Pitt this week, both from an offensive and defensive standpoint.

Duquesne should pack 'em in on the Bluff as the Dukes engage Loyola University of Baltimore. This game will afford the locals a chance to win four in a row.

West Virginia must needs guard against the insidious threat of over-confidence as the Mountaineers prepare for the fracas with Washington and Lee. Pat Herron will be pointing for the Rodgermen, and when Pat points, beware.

REAL DUELS CARDED

Geneva may be forced to share the Conference top with Thiel following the battle with the Lutherans at Greenville. Waynesburg and Bethany clash at Waynesburg in another Conference fray. Grove City and Westminster will duel at Grove City in a Tri-State, Class B school battle, in which the Grovers are certain to be the favorites.

Penn State, smarting from the defeat at the hands of Bucknell has Penn to get by at Philadelphia. The Bucknellians meet Herbie McCracken's Lafayette Leopards at Lewisburg. Lafayette has been running roughshod over all opposition so far, but will meet a tartar in Bucknell.

Davis-Elkins and the Quantico Marines are to thrill Fairmont fans in an intersectional clash in that city. West Virginia Wesleyan travels Eastward agaain to do battle with Lou Little's Georgetown warriors at Washington, D. C. St. Francis, the dark horse of the district, plays George Washington at Altoona.

There are fine games scheduled for all over the country. Notre Dame, comeback victor over the Navy at Chicago on Saturday, faces Georgia Tech in the annual clash at Atlanta. Dartmouth and Columbia meet at Hanover. The Army, undefeated, but badly frightened by Southern Methodist, will invade the high mucky-muck premises of Cambridge to engage fair Harvard.

Ohio State and Michigan meet in their annual Big Ten classic at Columbus. Purdue and Wisconsin, Minnesota and Chicago and Illinois and Indiana meet to complete the Western Conference schedule.

The Syracuse-Nebraska game at Lincoln and the California-Southern California tussles are others of great importance, possessing much color.

SIGN NEW PACT

The annual Pitt-West Virginia football game will be staged for at least two more years. Pitt officials announced Saturday that the institutions have signed a contract to that effect. However, the Panthers will mark a departure from the usual custom in 1930 when the contest will be staged at the home of the Mountaineers.

This will mark the first game featuring these elevens to be held at the Morgantown field in many years and will undoubtedly be made the main home contest of Rodgers' eleven.

WEST VIRGINIA

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15.—In honor of West Virginia's football team, which defeated the Pittsburgh eleven Saturday, today will be a holiday, having been declared such by President John R. Turner.

Celebration of the Mountaineer victory over the Panthers, the first since 1923, began immediately after the game in Pittsburgh and will be completed today when the team is honored. A thuse, which will include addresses by prominent members of the faculty, students, coaches and other athletic officials, is scheduled to take place in the morning. In the afternoon a football dance will be held in the armory.

WASH-JEFF

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—Repercussions from the W. & J.-Duquesne football game of Saturday leave the impression generally among Wash-Jeff followers that the Pittsburgh Irish got only about what they deserved when they won by 12 to 6. Andy Kerr was frank to admit he could have no particular grievance against the result of the combat, although he feels that his team in 19 out of 20 similar combats with the same team would not be defeated. Duquesne was a smart, well-coached aggregation. Kerr is again willing to be quoted to the effect that it is the best team coached by Notre Dame men in the Rockne style he has seen, except those which Rockne has coached himself. Kerr blames the defeat of his team to a certain degree on its inability to defend against forward passes, and it is apparent to those who saw the game that this was the main fault with the Presidents.

Wash-Jeff had not been beaten at home since 1917, when Notre Dame, coached by Jesse Harper, won by 3 to 0, and the Presidents did not relish the dose, particularly when many of them felt that they could have prevented defeat by being more alert.

Wash-Jeff is starting about its preparation for next Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech in a businesslike way. Practice will be secret all this week and will go forward right up to Friday afternoon, the team to be taken to Pittsburgh Saturday morning.

BAKER-FIELDS MATCHED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Sergeant Sammy Baker, of New York, and Jackie Fields, two leading contenders for the welterweight crown, have been signed for a 10-round outdoor bout here October 30.

Fields recently blasted the championship aspirations of Jack Thompson by taking a decision over the Negro. Thompson previously had knocked out Joe Dundee, the title-holder, in a non-title bout.

MEN WHO GUARD THEIR HEALTH SMOKE CIGARS

"Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien Famous Physical Culture Expert Advises Men Who Smoke, to Smoke Cigars

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar [OVER A MILLION A DAY] its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality

JACK O'BRIEN retired as undefeated light-heavyweight champion of the world. He has probably conditioned more prominent men and reduced more prominent waistlines than any man living. As a result of his experience and observations he advises men who smoke to smoke cigars.

"Altho I have never used tobacco in any form, I've noticed that soon after a man switches from other forms of tobacco to cigars," says "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien, "his wind improves, his nerves steady and he has more endurance, and so tires less easily than before."

There are good reasons for the observations of "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien.

A cigar is smoked for taste—slowly and leisurely—one is not lighted from the end of another, so cigar smoking never degenerates into a nervous habit. And the fine, full flavor of a cigar can be enjoyed without inhalation—indeed few cigars smokers ever inhale.

Further, a cigar has no tendency to irritate the throat—for to quote a prominent New York specialist: "The principal reason for throat troubles amongst smokers is the burning, drying effect of hot tobacco smoke upon the tender tissues of the throat. Cigar smoke is cool. A cigar is smoked leisurely—and since no quick-burning foreign substance is used for wrapper the tobacco burns slowly and is further cooled and filtered as it is drawn through the body of the cigar."

Make this test for a week—smoke cigars exclusively and you will find yourself feeling better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling.

To really test cigars, with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigar . . . over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

ONCE life had promised so much . . . merry parties and companionable evenings!

Now she knew life had lied to her; Jim had grown sulky, irritable, unfriendly . . . Why?

Jim knew what gave him that chronic bad temper; knew that when poisons got bottled up in the intestines they ruined dispositions, undermined health. Yet he'd tried ordinary laxatives; slow-acting health foods—cathartics that wracked the system.

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious mint chewing gum. You don't swallow it hastily, like other laxatives—you chew it!

The chewing releases Feen-a-mint's wonderful cleansing principle so gradually, so naturally that it acts with unbelievable gentleness—yet sweeps out the clogging poisons from your whole system. In 3 to 4 hours (or by morning, if you take it at bedtime) it freshens you from top to toe!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't disturb digestion. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's today.

TWO of the games carded in the American Soccer League went up in smoke Sunday. The East Pittsburgh Magyars-Westinghouse game failed to materialize. The teams played an exhibition tilt, Westinghouse winning 5 to 1. Dunlevy would not play at Grove Stop, and the other game found the German Sport Club defeating the National Tube eleven, 4 to 0.

So with Sunday's games in mind, it seems a good thing for the league Heidelberg is coming back into the loop. When two of the three scheduled games are not played, something is wrong.

Just how the Corinthians will get by without the Curry field is a matter of doubt, because it seems an assured fact none of the clubs are willing to take a chance of the short fields.

Much interest marked the playing of the games around Monongahela City. Gallatin had a good crowd on hand and swamped Monongahela City by 2 goals to 0. Sunnyside had a close call with Vesta Six, winning by the only goal scored.

With the senior team idle, Dunlevy juniors had the Donora outfit for its attraction, and the home boys won by 2 goals to 0 score.

Soccer had its closest day; all of the clubs seeming evenly matched. It seems the Monongahela race is going to be close as all of the clubs are playing heads up soccer.

rig, but Columbia Lou, fighter that he is, outshines all others.

GRANTHAM apapears to lag in his play after he has been through a hard grind. At times he looks like the best in the circuit and a week later he may be in the stride of an ordinary player. These moods seem to alternate in the Arizona greyhound with the result that George may lose a spot in the regular lineup.

Grantham left something to be desired in his second-base play and apparently there is dissatisfaction over his action at the right corner of the diamond. All that remains for George is the outfield, and it can be stated that Grantham looks the part of a gem as he chases lofts and liners. Boots was particularly impressive the few games he played in rightfield. But the Waner boys are both southpaw hitters and the advent of Grantham into the pasture would give the Buccos a rather lopsided array so far as the style of batting is concerned.

GRANTHAM generally starts out with a rush. He maintained a fast clip for a big part of this year's race, but after he had recovered from a broken finger his general actions were not as impressive as his movements in the first half of the season. George apparently doesn't stand the grind like some of the others.

THE Waner boys, by the way, will be huskier athletes when the next training bell rings if they are able to gain their objective during the off months.

"I am going to try to weigh about 165 pounds when I report next year," mused Paul. "I have never reached this point, but I think the added weight would help me."

BROTHER LLOYD also has a plan whereby he expects to add weight to his body. Lloyd says he will spend most of the winter leading the simple life of his dad's farm. The two wonders of the diamond turned down lucrative vaudeville engagements in deference to rest and relaxation. They are now engaged in playing a few barnstorming games in the Middle West.

CARNEGIE AMONG SCHOOL LEADERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Al Marsters, Dartmouth's great running back, heads the list of individual scorers in Eastern college football ranks. Tied with three other men a week ago, Marsters took undisputed possession of first place when he tallied 19 points in Dartmouth's victory over Allegheny yesterday.

Ken Strong of New York University, holds second place with 39 points, 16 of which he scored in his team's victory over Fordham. The 10 leading scorers compiled from a representative list of Eastern colleges, follows:

Player—Col. Pos.	G.	D.	Pt.	Fg.	Pts.
Marsters, Dartmouth, Hb..	3	8	1	0	49
Strong, New York, Hb....	3	5	9	0	39

Reeling off four victories in a row, Drexel leads Eastern colleges in football's won and lost column, but high scoring honors thus far belong to Georgetown, which has played but three games and won them all. Georgetown's 52 points against Lebanon Valley Saturday raised the Washington institution's total for the season to 171. Carnegie Tech with 142, Dartmouth with 120, and Syracuse with 104, are among the colleges with point totals over the century mark. The records of Eastern colleges that have scored more than 75 points, follows:

HUMBERT IN LEAD

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—taking advantage of weaker non-conference competition, Fritz Humbert, Illinois fullback, piled up two touchdowns against Coe Saturday to gain a wide margin in the race for individual scoring honors in the Big Ten. He scored five touchdowns for a total of 30 points.

BIG TEN RACE OPENS

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Emerging victorious in opening battles involving the Western Conference gridiron championship, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio State and Iowa are brewing poison for other title contenders, judging from their performance in the initial combats Saturday.

This quartet takes rank with the two teams which have been installed favorites in the race, Illinois and Wisconsin, while Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern and Purdue must be considered, for the present, at least, quite out of the picture.

A better lineup of Indiana's strength will be available next Saturday when the Hoosiers battle Illinois, defending champion, at Urbana. Wisconsin will take on Purdue at Lafayette. These two contests will be the standout attractions strictly involving championship rating. The other two Big Ten games on the schedule bring together Michigan and Ohio State in one of their traditional affairs at Columbus, with Chicago tangling with the rough Minnesota boys at Minneapolis. Northwestern and Iowa will take time out from Conference activity. The Purple eleven will take the field against Kentucky at Evanston, while Ripon is figured to give Iowa a workout at Iowa City.

Analyzing Saturday's games, the sideline experts figure Michigan, Chicago and Purdue were decisively outplayed, but that Northwestern was the victim of costly fumbles.

SOLIDIFY LEADERSHIP

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 15.—(AP.)—While Southern Conference teams were meeting reverses in more intersectional football games, four others were solidifying their leadership within the organization with decisive victories Saturday. Clemson, South Carolina, Georgia Tech and Alabama have assumed the Conference leadership with two victories each and no losses. Vanderbilt also won its second intersectional victory in two weeks, defeating the University of Texas, 13 to 12.

Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, however, met with crushing reversals in the East.

COAST TEAM ON FORM

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—The Big Four of the Pacific Coast Conference—Stanford, Washington, Southern California and California—are running true to form again and the end of the third week of the 1928 football campaign finds this quartet as the only undefeated elevens of the conference. The Conference standing follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Stanford	2	0	1.000
Southern California.....	1	0	1.000
Washington	1	0	1.000
California	1	0	1.000

SPORT COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

the closing quarter, made any attempt to vary its style of offense, were the alertness of its backs and the excellent punting which frequently gave it a profit on an exchange of kicks.

In the line, Carrico and Brewster stood out. The ends were none too good, and the Mountaineer left tackles had a terrible afternoon, Rodgers being compelled to shift three men in and out of that position in a vain attempt to stop Parkinson and Uansa.

AS TO weak spots, inevitable in an early-season game and especially so on the part of a green team such as Pitt, which had to fill eight positions vacated by 1927 regulars, the passing from center is the worst Pitt has had in many years.

It certainly contrasts with the feeding of the ball to the backs during the last two years, when the great and only half appreciated Andy Cutler established an all-time record of accuracy and skill in getting the ball back to his mates.

MONTGOMERY'S passing was poor. Baker's was worse, and cost Pitt the last two points added to West Virginia's total. Several of the Pitt boys, too, showed butter fingers in handling the usually accurate tosses of Edwards and Williams. Interference was not up to the Pitt standard, at times; occasionally it was excellent, but it bogged down badly on several of Williams' ball-carrying efforts. It might also be remarked that there is room for improvement on the part of "Josh" in following his interference when it does function.

CHARLEY TULLY, at left tackle for Pitt, showed that he is improving steadily, and will help Dr. Sutherland with his difficult line problem. Baker, on the other hand, was a distinct disappointment in this game, indicating that Montgomery is likely to remain at center and Tully at the tackle position which he vacated when he moved over to snapper-back.

Pitt started three West Virginia boys against the Mountaineers. Edwards hails from Moundsville, Tully from Wheeling and Montgomery from Warwood. And several Pennsylvania boys appeared in the Morgantown lineup. Perhaps the best known here is Jimmy Black, once of Homestead and Kiski, and then of the Pitt Freshmen, several years ago.

ODIE CLEGHORN

THE schedule of the National Professional Hockey League, made public today, shows that the Pittsburgh team will open and close the season at home. Ode Cleghorn's re-organized sextet will hoist the curtain at Duquesne Garden on Thursday night, November 15, and will play its final game of the race here on March 16. On both occasions Boston will be the visiting attraction.

The campaign will open a week earlier than ever before, and will also close earlier than has been the custom. Last season the Pirates did not wind up until March 24.

PITTSBURGH, like the other teams in the league, will play 22 games at home and the same number abroad. The Bucs will meet each of the other clubs in its own loop three times here and three times abroad, and each team in the other wheel twice here and twice abroad. Eight of the 22 games at Duquesne Garden will be played on Thursday nights, eight on Saturday nights and six on Tuesday nights. There will be one holiday game at home, that with Montreal on New Year's night. The Bucs will play in Montreal on Thanksgiving Day and will be idle on Christmas, resting from December 22 to 27. The first road game will be played on November 18 in Detroit, and the last on March 10 in Chicago.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—The San Francisco Seals clouted the offerings of three Sacramento pitchers yesterday to trounce the Senators 15 to 3 and take an edge in the playoff of the Pacific Coast League championship. It gave the San Francisco club three games to two for Sacramento. Saturday Sacramento won, 12 to 11.

PRICE HAS PERFECT SCORE IN SHOOT

E. H. Price, member of the Fort Pitt Rifle Club, was the high winner of the rising bear match shoot on the club's range Saturday when he shot a perfect score of 50. M. R. Coleman, winner of class B, was a close second, scoring a 49. C. W. Freehling also scored a 49, but according to the rules governing the game received nothing better than third place for his shooting. Dr. A. B. French shot a 46. The summary:

E. H. Price, 50; M. R. Coleman, 49; C. W. Freehling, 49; P. C. Beal, 47; Dr. A. B. French, 46; W. H. Schmidt, 40; P. C. Bradley, 37.

ROBERTI, UZCUDUN GO WEDNESDAY CALLED OFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP.)—Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper, will have to find somebody else besides Roberto Roberti to fight at Ebbets Field Wednesday night.

Humbert Fugazy announced yesterday that Roberto would be unable to meet the Basque and that he was making efforts to find an acceptable substitute. Roberti recently pleaded off sick just before he was to meet the Giant Negro, George Godfrey. Fugazy said an X-ray examination showed the big Italian was suffering from fractures of two ribs and would be unable to fight for six weeks at least.

CARROLLTOWN WINS

High-Ups On Stock Outlook. Business Notably Better.

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE final quarter of the year now definitely promises to be the best.

Whether it will prove the best for optimistic speculators in stocks is doubtful.

THROUGH mingling this week with the highest-ups in the financial world, I gained this impression: Nothing is likely to be attempted by any responsible interests which would tend to upset the security markets before November 6. It is taken for granted that Mr. Hoover will be elected. Immediately thereafter it would not be astonishing were very extensive realizing to set in. It is generally assumed that the principal bull pools are still very heavily loaded with stocks which they have caused to double or treble in price. Difference of opinion exists as to whether the public will come forward and hold the bag for the pool managers when the expected "good news" on November 7 is blazed to the world.

That the stock market will develop a very definite trend before the end of the year is widely expected. Those holding very extensive lines of stocks express confidence that Hoover's election will send the market much higher.

IT CAN be accepted as a fact however, that the majority of New York's most influential bankers are not loaded up with speculative shares. The same can be said of the heads of Chicago's principal financial institutions. In these quarters the stock market is regarded as on a dangerous level in view of the state of the money market.

THE credit condition does not improve. Brokers' loans again were lifted to a new peak last week. So were call loans furnished by non-bank lenders. It is significant of banking sentiment in New York that there was further curtailment of local bank loans to brokers. The New York Federal Reserve Bank revealed that its reserve is 11 per cent below that held a year ago.

It is true that money rates eased somewhat last week, call loans being available at as low as six per cent and time money at seven per cent to 7¼ per cent. Also an additional modest amount of gold has been engaged abroad.

But this is not considered by leading bankers as offsetting the fresh expansion in credits. Although they do not predict any rise in money rates to new heights for the year, they are quite uneasy over the way things are going.

WHEN you turn to the business world you find an entirely different atmosphere. Almost every authority acknowledges that substantial improvement has developed. And faith in the general business outlook at least for the balance of the year is practically universal.

Attention is drawn to the remarkable demand for iron and steel products, for automobiles, for new construction, for rubber, for electric power. Railway car loadings not only above last year's, but above those of 1926 are interpreted as most encouraging. So are the notable increases recorded in mail and chain store sales. The ample crops are counted upon to help general activities notwithstanding that prices are not all satisfactory to growers.

The improved conditions in Europe constitute another favorable factor, making for an increase in our foreign trade.

ONE of Britain's famous bankers, Reginald McKenna, chairman of the Midland Bank of London and ex-chancellor of the British Exchequer, is now visiting this country. The head of a stock exchange house (Harris Winthrop & Company), after talking with him, states:

"Mr. McKenna felt that money would be in abundant supply before very long; that America occupied a wonderful position in the world, appreciated more by Europeans than by citizens of our own country; that property was as secure here as in any place in the world and more secure than in many places, and that Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans and other nationalities desired some part of their savings to be invested in America.

"He thought our natural resources, our banking laws and the confidence of the world in us were such that we were entering into an era of prosperity comparable only to that which England enjoyed after the Napoleonic wars. This talk—that prices were at such a level here in New York that there would be a collapse—to him was mere nonsense; not but what he considered some securities too high, but he thought present prices in many instances were under true values.

"He said that the Bank of England could easily spare, and would do so without any complaint, $100,000,000."

THIS foreign authority's analysis of our stock market position differs drastically from that of our own leading bankers. Having given you both views, it is for you to decide which is the sounder and to act accordingly.

CARNEGIE METALS RESUMES ITS ADVANCE

M'KINNEY SHARES FIRM AS GENERAL LIST LAGS

Resumption of buying activities in Carnegie Metals pushed that issue higher at the opening of the new week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today.

Initial trading in Carnegie showed no change with the stock selling at 22. Available supply around this level was quickly absorbed, however, and it was apparent that the pool operation which got under way a week or so ago was being carried forward again. Several hundred shares changed hands on an upward movement in the first hour which carried the quotation up a full point from the opening. There was a period of rest at that level, but no great amount of stock was offered. Traders seemed inclined to hold their long position on the assumption that the present flurry in the stock will take it beyond the old high of 27. Gossip in the Street last week was to the effect that the clique working in the shares intends to put the price around 30 on this move.

McKinney Manufacturing was more active than usual with the stock showing a more pronounced upward tendency than has been noted for some time. The advance was small, but the stock held firm around 13, a gain of a point over the price at which it sold last week. Hardware trade activity is reported increasing and this fact was thought to be partly responsible for McKinney's firmness.

Miscellaneous issues were practically unchanged. American Window Glass Machine preferred changed hands at 50, equal to the last previous price. The fuels were quiet, but prices held steady.

Industrials and specialties, while commanding the bulk of speculative attention, did not divert buyers from the railroads, enough purchasing orders coming in to raise New York Central, St. Louis Southwestern, Lehigh Valley and Wabash 3 to 4 points. The extent to which the floating supply of many of the mercurial issues had been reduced was indicated by the number of advances of 5 points and upward, which was accomplished on relatively small purchasing orders. The renewal rate for call loans was unchanged at 6½ per cent.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Pittsburgh Coal Moves Ahead.

Pittsburgh Coal moved up sharply today and pointed toward the previous high of 55, established when the market broke early last June. Coal has been under accumulation for some time, but the stock had been a keen disappointment to those who bought too early. While the most important interests have had their Coal for a long time, some of the traders were encouraged to take a long position when Secretary Mellon stated several weeks ago that the business was healthy. While the present move may peter out as did most of the previous advances of the past two years, there is a definite feeling in some quarters that the stock will ultimately resume its old position in the market. One New York house was very bullish this morning and stated definitely that it expected the stock to sell well above 100 before next June, adding that "it might be much sooner." Pittsburgh Coal last week made a new high record of production since it adopted the open shop plan. The output was 250,000 tons, compared with 240,000 tons the previous week.

$4 Basis for Calumet and Hecla.

Directors of Calumet and Hecla Consolidated Copper Company today increased the dividend on the company's shares to a $4 annual basis as compared with previous payments at the rate of $2 a year. The action was a complete surprise to the Street and was followed by wild buying of Calumet and Hecla, which rushed up more than 10 points in almost as many minutes after the news came out. This development concerned attention on the entire metal group, which had been lagging for a few days as a result of the more quiet tone reported in the copper metal market. There has been a lull in the copper metal market after the record breaking movement in September. But this is natural. Inactivity always follows a big rush to buy. However, copper prices have held firm and sellers are not at all eager to make concessions. They realize that consumption continues at a rapid rate and will not be long before consumers again begin to lay in fresh supplies. A big buying movement before the end of the year is likely to send copper prices to levels far above for surplus stocks of the metal are about as low as they have ever been.

Sees Higher Chile Dividend.

A private wire says: "It is now said it will not be long before Chile Copper increases its dividend. This follows reports that Anaconda will soon make an offer for Chile stock in the hands of the public."

Strength in copper metal should be reflected in increased earnings of Chile which is one of the low cost producers. Earnings of the June quarter were $1.24 a share, ar at the annual rate of nearly $5 a share. Anaconda, because of its large ownership in Chile stock, will stand to benefit by the better results expected in the future.

Banking Groups Optimistic.

Commenting on the banking attitude toward business and the stock market, Barron's Weekly says: "Banking and capitalistic groups continue optimistic, manifesting their enthusiasm in dictating higher dividends, in refraining from liquidating, and in buying stocks even at rising prices. More and more convincing talk, which does not savor of idle prediction, filters in from high sources of what may be expected next spring. The only question is how far the process of discounting the amazing prosperity of the country can proceed without one of those readjustments that eliminate all but the stout-hearted optimists from the speculative arena."

Cotton Consumption Less.

The Census Bureau reports running bales of lint cotton consumed in mills of the United States in September as 492,221 bales, compared with 526,732 in August and 627,784 in September, 1927. Total consumption for 12 months of the season amounts to 1,018,950 bales, against 1,262,304 in the same period last season.

In public storage and at compresses 2,645,977 bales of lint and 40,018 of linters, compared with 1,188,861 and 38,091 on August 31 this year and 3,964,613 and 38,914 on September 30 last year. Cotton imported during September totaled 15,508 bales, compared with 28,347 in September last year. Exports totaled 814,569 bales, including 4,616 bales of linters, compared with 631,011 and 10,754 in September last year. Cotton spindles active during September totaled 28,227,090, compared with 28,243,500 in August this year and 32,398,452 in September last year.

Atlantic Change Approved.

Stockholders of Atlantic Refining Company at a special meeting in Philadelphia, approved the proposed splitup of common shares on a four-for-one basis, also an increase of no-par shares of the 151,000 from 4,850,000 and change in par value from $100 to $25, effective October 25. No action was taken on the issuance of any part of this additional capital. Following resolutions of the board that such increase of common stock be issued from time to time at the discretion of the directors.

Smelters Split 3-for-1.

Directors of American Smelting and Refining Company have called a special meeting of stockholders for December 18 to act on a change of the $100 par common stock to a no-par issue, and authorize 4,000,000 shares in place of the present 650,000 shares. There will be 1,829,940 shares of new stock to be exchanged for the 609,980 shares of outstanding common on the basis of three shares of new stock for one old while capitalizing any of the surplus or net profit of the company. This will leave in the treasury 2,170,060 shares of common of no-par value. It is also proposed to create a second preferred stock, consisting of 200,000 shares of $100 par. The next common dividend of $2 a share is payable on November 1 and is at the rate of $8 annually on the present stock. The next dividend thereafter will be declared by directors at a meeting held the first Tuesday of January, 1929, and at that time the rate of dividend on the new no par value stock will be determined. Present indications show probable earnings of American Smelting for the year 1928 of $24 a share on the old stock. The general impression in the Street is that dividends, when established on the new stock, will be at a higher proportionate rate than now obtains on the present shares.

No Politics by Police Is Warning of Court

In throwing out of court a surety of peace charge brought against Police Inspector Joseph Elsner, Judge James B. Drew commented that politics was behind the matter and that "police must be kept out of politics." To which the public adds a hearty "Amen!"

It is too bad, though, that the court could not have had before it the political leaders, so-called, who are responsible for the police being in politics, to admonish them that our principal public safety arm is for the protection of the public and not to be used in the petty skullduggery which the political machine vainly imagines to be "strategy."

It is too bad the court did not have an opportunity to censure properly those who compel our police to become electioneering agencies. It is too bad he could not have pointed out to these gang chieftains that their methods, at a time when parts of the electorate are under the heat of excitement of factional contention, result in rioting and even killings.

Yes, the police should be kept out of politics, and it is the men who force them into politics who should be held up to the public as the enemies of the people. When political standing or regularity is the basis of promotion and preference in the force, instead of faithfulness to duty, there is bound to grow up a false conception among the rank and file as to which side loyalty is due, the people or the political machine.

That has been the fault in our city and it constitutes the basic reason for the present probe being conducted by the grand jury.

The police, indeed, should be kept out of politics.

Where, Now, Is All Thy Glory?

Ask the Barren Hills of Mongolia.

HERE, MIGHTY RULERS AND GREAT TREASURES LIE BURIED.

"I am Osymandyas, King of Kings, look upon my works ye mighty ones and tremble."

Thus the proud King of the East boasted, and all that was left of his mighty "works" was a fragment of his statue and a dreary sweep of sand.

It was such a scene as that in this picture, a photograph of dreary, desolate hills in inner Mongolia, which few white men have seen.

In these hills lie buried the bodies of mighty rulers of Mongolia in ages past.

Each of those rulers, now forgotten, thought that his name would live and that his body would rise to be a great ruler, SUBJECT TO THE GREATEST RULER, in a heaven of his own kind. The bodies were carefully buried away, in stony hills or deep woods—there to be forgotten.

When the greatest of all rulers of the East, Genghis Khan, was buried, his fierce warriors carried the body night and day far off to a dense wood in the hills of Northern Mongolia. On the way they killed every man, woman and child they met, that no one might know of the great Khan or its direction.

Many that would not care for ruins of empires or graves of Mongolian rulers, will be interested in the fact that treasures of gold and precious stones are perhaps buried with some of those bodies of ancient rulers in desolate Mongolian plains, hills and northern forests.

Many cities were once built by Tartars, Mongolians and conquerors of various kinds in the lands now swept by wind, covered with sand, now lonely hunting grounds in which modern science digs up dinosaur eggs, huge, extinct monsters, and in which recently, the learned Russian, Prof. Kosloff, traveling in Tibetan Mongolia, discovered and explored the anicent city of Khara-Khoto.

The modern mind says, "Let me into Mongolia, and when I dig it will be NOT for dinosaur eggs, but for the gold buried by those old rulers."

The philosophical, non-modern mind looks at this scene and says, "Let me do something while I live worth while, something that will be of use to other human beings, so that whether I am REMEMBERED or FORGOTTEN, I shall not have lived in vain."

Prof. Kosloff, who found the dead city in the heart of the Gobi Desert, is in no way interested in treasure, except scientific and archeological treasure.

He explored ancient towers, found thousands of scrolls, books and manuscripts, and 300 Chinese pictures illustrating the religious ideas of the Buddhists.

Those Chinese Buddhist pictures, by the way, might disturb some fundamentalist, if he lacked common sense ideas.

For those paintings, much older than Christianity, show scenes that might be considered a satire on Christianity.

Sitting in the clouds, with the figure of a Buddhist monk on each side of him, you see the ruler of the universe, Buddhist monks ministering to him and interpreting his will. And in a corner of the picture frequently appears the figure of a pious Buddhist layman, censor in hand.

Such pictures, in the Buddhist teachings, amazed and considerably disturbed pious missionaries from Rome that went into Tibet and other parts of Asia centuries ago.

They found there a religion that had millions of followers long before the beginning of Christianity, and that religion seemed like an imitation or a parody of Christianity.

It included miraculous birth, atonement, religious beliefs that foreshadowed the Christian Church that came afterward.

To put at rest the minds of the pious, it was explained that the devil, knowing, of course, what Christianity was to be, started that other religion first, with features imitating Christianity, in order to make the Christian religion ridiculous. Missionaries that had seen the things, and had written about them, were forbidden to publish their books, and that settled that.

And now the sands cover them, as the sands of time cover ancient superstitions, cover graves of the old Mongolian rulers, and will some day cover us ALL—our great cities, skyscrapers, presidential candidates, moving pictures. And all the rest of that which we consider so important. All is, in reality, but the momentary shifting of sands in the kaleidoscope of time.

IT WILL SOON BE READY TO SERVE

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and came a delayed postal from Homer Croy in Lima, Peru, that he had been investigating the Lima bean situation and although the natives never heard of them seemed happy withal. Also a letter from Billy De Beck, the limner, who has fallen in love with Paris and will winter at St. Jean d'Luz.

So at irksome tasks and later to drive with a friend in Prospect Park in Brooklyn and there afoot for a pleasant walk, it being my favorite park in all the city. Home where came Archie Andrews and Ted Doremus and much rag, tag and bobtail.

In the evening to dinner with Charles B. Driscoll, the gazeteer, at a Greek restaurant on Fourteenth street, and we prowled about Greenwich Village, finding a short, narrow thoroughfare called Gay street, as peaceful as ever we saw. Then to bed.

The roof bungalow craze flourishes. Almost every new sky-scraper has a house with spreading lawn, arbors, little streams with foot bridges high up in the clouds. The fashionable pent house has become the most exclusive of all ways of living in the metropolis. It has its private elevator and is away from prying eyes of neighbors. A few of them, it is whispered, have become tasty hide-aways for crepe de chine ladies who are linked in the tabloids with those heartless Wall street men.

* * *

Tattoo removers are not confined entirely to streets haunted by seamen along water fronts. There is now one on Forty-second street. The charge for removal is $5 a square inch.

* * *

Tatooing is found on people not supposed to resort to this cuticular vanity. At a bathing beach recently a college professor, with a superior classroom manner, exposed an arm with a bleeding heart tatooed thereon. It was a relic of a runaway sea trip in early youth.

Youth is getting on in the book-publishing business. Four new and highly successful publishers are under 35.

* * *

It has been observed that great publishing houses reach a stage of dry rot. Until late years few readers in publishing houses, who passed upon the merits of books, were under 60. Then the business was infused with the enthusiasm of youth and more books are sold now than ever. Six books a year used to be an average for publishers. One firm this year published 412.

* * *

Enthusiasm, incidentally, receives this trade last from a highly successful New Yorker: "Give me 80 per cent enthusiasm and 20 per cent ability and I'll make any business you name pay high dividends."

* * *

A New York jeweler is displaying a diamond studded hand bag designed for a beautiful chorus lady whose boy friend doesn't care what he does with papa's money. It cost him $26,000. Before pricing it I had thought of ordering one for my wife and have been blushing for three days straight.

* * *

And the same jeweler has a pearl necklace which has been sold for $685,000. The largest pearl is valued at $135,000. The purchaser is a one-gallused middle west fellow on the right side of a motor stock rise. The story goes his wife tried to persuade him to keep out of Wall Street and to placate her he promised if he won she could select any necklace she might choose. The $685,000 necklace was her choice. The income represented by such an investment is $3,000 a week, which seems to some of us an awful price for upkeep of something so easily duplicated in paste only experts can distinguish.

"I am retiring from active work," announces a New York merchant, "to go to the south of France and write." Louder!

* * *

Also a lot funnier, you big stiff!

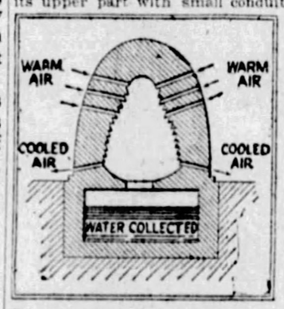
Garrett P. Serviss Says:

An Aerian Well

WHEN an invention bases itself upon great natural principles it becomes of philosophic interest. M. Knapen, a Belgian engineer, has just been attracting attention in Europe by his proposed "puits aerian" (aerian well, or air well), with which he believes that arid or semi-arid regions may be rendered fertile by drawing water from the air.

The opening argument is that the atmosphere over even desert areas contains a great deal of invisible moisture. M. Knapen avers that in arid lands atmospheric water to the amount of from seven to ten kilograms (15 to 22 pounds) may be found in every cube of air measuring ten meters (32.8 feet)on a side. He proposes to condense this atmospheric supply into liquid water, for irrigating the ground, by means of an apparatus which is here illustrated.

A hollow dome of very thick masonry is pierced in its upper part with small conduits which have an inward slope. The purpose of these is to admit warm air to the cool interior of the dome, the cool air within escaping through other conduits that pierce the lower part of the dome with an outward slope.



The interior of the dome is encircled with horizontal ridges, the sharp edges of which all incline downward. These are intended to cause the moisture collected on the walls of the dome by condensation from the heated outer air as it enters the refrigerating interior to collect in drops, which fall from the ridges upon the dish-shaped bottom of the dome, which discharges into a reservoir beneath.

M. Knapen calculates that an apparatus of this kind having a condensing surface of 100 square meters (over 1,000 square feet) could collect from the atmosphere from thirty to forty cubic meters (1,000 to 1,400 cubic feet) of water per day. So, in his imagination, he pictures broad acres of land, now desolate under a cloudless sun, smiling with rich vegetation, out of which rise, like ornamental minarets, the summits of the beneficent aerian wells pumping the life-blood of plants out of the torpid atmosphere.

Engineers to whom this scheme has been submitted look upon it not without favor, being predisposed perhaps by the fact that M. Knapen is the inventor of a system of drying the walls of buildings by means of a similar disposition of small conduits in the masonry, which dry by means of air currents that condense the moisture contained in the pores of the masonry and cause it to flow to the outer side of the walls. This system has been used with success.

The commercial and financial aspects of this scheme for making the skies give water whether they choose or refuse to rain, remain to be investigated. But it shows that human ingenuity is daily growing bolder.

The Eternal Question

MATRIMONIAL statistics imported from Germany reveal the impossibility of even approximating the influence of women on men. The Teutonic authorities made a national survey to ascertain the effects of marriage on longevity. They found out that married men live longer than single men, a conclusion so old that the wisecrack, "No, it only seems longer," has gone three times round the world since it was first uttered.

Yet the assurance of the fact was comforting to all benedicts. Between the ages of 20 and 25 the mortality of bachelors was 60 per cent greater than that of married men. The reasons ascribed were regular and refreshing meals, orderly existence and ample sleep.

All of which was very well and if the survey stopped there the wedded ones would rejoice, but German efficiency had to go further with less pleasing results. They offered prizes for masculine good conduct—and all the prizes were won by widowers, divorced men and bachelors. A logical conclusion would be that married men live longer but do not behave so well—and that's a slanderous canard, if ever there was one. Ten to one, that contest was fixed, framed and in the bag from the beginning.

Partial to One Child?

AS a parent are you showing a preference for one child more than another?

Don't make this serious mistake. Your favorite is likely to be the brightest and most attractive.

The contrast is thus forcibly borne in on those who are less bright.

Though you may never mention your feelings, a sensitive child knows instinctively when he or she is not a favorite, and it hurts.

You are cultivating an inferiority complex where it will do the most harm in after life.

It is a short step from realizing that the family thinks less of you to the conviction that outsiders favor you less also.

When the feeling is strong, success is automatically blocked.

It takes courage and a certain self-confidence to be successful.

Every child who is near normal should be taught that he or she is as likely to make a success with proper training as anyone else.

When parents display confidence in a child it is hard for misfortune to break down this essential defense.

You owe it to each of your children, this most important factor of future happiness and success—the backing of parental faith in ultimate success.

Giving

THERE is but little I can grasp
Of all joy's thronging train,
And yet this little in my clasp
Is mine to give again.

And freely as they come to me
I render in my turn
Gifts dearer than the eve can see,
And thus new gladness earn.

Mine, mine the rapture and the light
Of love that knows no wane,
And mine the manifold delight,
Of giving love again.

For every bliss each day bestows
Which I, in turn, impart,
By that blest act of giving grows
More precious to my heart.

Great Passages from the Bible

Parable of the King's Son

(Matthew 22; 1-14)

AND Jesus answered and spake unto them again by parables, and said,

The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son,

And sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come.

Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage.

But they made light of it, and went their ways, one to his farm, another to his merchandise:

And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them.

But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth his armies, and destroyed those murderers, and burned up their city.

Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy.

Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage.

So those servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good: and the wedding was furnished with guests.

And when the king came in to see the guests, he saw there a man which had not on a wedding garment:

And he saith unto him, Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment? And he was speechless.

Then said the king to the servants, Bind him hand and foot, and take him away, and cast him into outer darkness; there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

For many are called, but few are chosen.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IF YOU don't ever take the kids to visit the neighbors, how are they going to grow up with sense enough to speak to people when they meet them? And still, if you do take them to the neighbors, they're sure to disgrace you, sooner or later.

Like Georgie Starr. His mamma took him along to call on Mrs. Grumph, and it happened that Mrs. Grumph had a toothache that day, and was complaining about it.

"Why," says Georgie, butting right in, "you ought to do like my mamma. When she gets the toothache she takes her teeth right out and puts them in a glass of water, and then they can't ache any more. Don't you, Mom?"

Looked Rather Like It

RABBIT-PIE was going to be served for dinner at the somewhat dingy boarding-house, and the boarders were all looking forward to the novelty.

"My poor husband was a wonderful artist," sighed the boarding-house keeper, as she hacked at the pie-crust. "And he used to say that he always found inspiration in my cooking."

A gloomy-looking young bank clerk, who had been studying her efforts to cut the pie, suddenly spoke.

"A sculptor, I presume," he remarked, and then lapsed into silence once again.

Correct Clothing

WITH a snap the big-game hunter closed his book, switched out the electric light, and composed himself for sleep.

An hour or two later his valet was awakened by sounds coming from the basement. At once this trustworthy man rushed into his master's room and after a great deal of shaking succeeded in waking him.

"There's a burglar downstairs," he gasped nervously.

"Sure?" replied the other. "Then get me my gun and"—he yawned loudly—"and—er—let me see, I—er—I'll wear my plus-fours."

Preparedness

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Preparedness is a thing that everybody wants. Every nation should be prepared to defend itself. Nobody will dispute this, any more than nobody will dispute the fact that the Eighteenth Amendment should be enforced so long as it is a law.

But how is preparedness to be maintained?

The old idea that any country should be so strong in arms as to render it futile for any other country to attack it has been thoroughly exploded.

History is full of instances where the best armed country finally fell. The stories of Greece, Rome and Spain are eloquent.

They staged a sham battle in London the other day between hundreds of bombers and fast pursuit planes, attacking and defending. The result was that it was plainly proved to the British that no matter how efficient Great Britain's defending force may be it cannot stop every bomber which a determined Continental enemy might send over the capital. Some assailants are bound to get through.

In this sham battle the air ministry was theoretically destroyed twice. The Duke of York headquarters at Chelsea was wiped out. Winston Churchill's country home was laid flat.

The Manchester Guardian says that the lesson of the whole affair is one for disarmament, since no European capital can prevent raiders of another country from destroying it in war.

The fact is that the best defense in the country, the best guarantee of its peace, is not in its army and navy, but the spirit of its people.

You are safe in New York because nobody especially wants to kill you.

If New York was composed entirely of criminals, all with lust, murder and mayhem unbridled in their hearts, the city would be in ashes before the end of a week. All of our policemen, soldiers and sailors could not prevent it.

It seems a long process to so develop the spirit of law that it shall render the country safe, and the short cut of fear and force is appealing, but facts are facts.

The best preventive of war is to create a public opinion that desires peace. The imaginations of men's hearts must be trained. So long as men want war and eagerly anticipate deeds of violence war will always remain as a possibility.

When men like Obregon are assassinated the minds of the people must be changed. Humanity cannot be permanently controlled by force.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By LEOLA ALLARD.

WHILE in Honduras, a New York family acquired a most efficient maid. She was good-natured, capable, anxious to please, and when the family came home, they decided they would bring this treasure with them. They did.

After a few weeks in America, the maid said she wanted her picture taken to send home. She was told where there was a photographer who was good and not too expensive, and she set out to find him.

It was about a week later that she came to her mistress with proofs of the pictures.

"Horrors!" said the lady. "You can't send these pictures home. Whatever made you have them taken this way?" and she looked through four poses of the girl, with her hair down and posed in her underwear.

"That's what the photographer told me," said the maid. "I couldn't have them that way, but I insist. I want them that way. I am an American now, and I want the folks at home to know I am an American. I want to be like they are."

"But they don't get photographed that way in America," said her mistress. "What made you think they did?"

The girl disappeared and brought back a stack of magazines which she had taken from the library of the home as the new issues replaced them. She turned to the advertising sections and showed the lady dozens of pictures of pretty girls in underwear and corsets, with hair loose, and looking exceedingly attractive—for advertisements.

"The girl is so pretty she will probably wind up posing for some artist," said the lady. "At any rate those pictures are going to be finished and sent home. I have given up trying to dissuade her."

"You should have seen the filmy undies she bought for those photographs! It isn't likely she will be able to buy anything else all winter after paying for the chiffon things and the photographs," the girl's mistress said.

And wouldn't you like to see the faces of the un-American relatives when the photographs arrive in Honduras?
